"Waiter" Clams Up On Why He Sold His Home To Teamsters

Former Associate Of Al Capone Takes Fifth Amendment

WASHINGTON (AP) — Paul (The Waiter) Ricca, an old Al Capone gangster, clammed up tight Friday on why he sold his luxurious beach home in Indiana to James R. Hoffa's Teamsters Union.

Ricca, now a rather peaceful looking man with a fringe of white hair, gave no help at all to Senate racketeers trying to get to the bottom of his connections with Hoffa.

Ricca relied on the Fifth Amendment, and its protection against giving incriminating evidence against oneself.

The racket committee established, through checks, that the witness—his real name is Paul de Lucia—got $150,000 in 1956 for his home and grounds at Long Beach, in Indiana's La Porte County.

Only Looks At Checks
Ricca condescended to look at the checks, but that was all.

Committee Counsel Robert F. Kennedy said the estate was bought by the Teamsters with the announced plan of using it as a training school for business agents.

Kennedy raised the question, without getting any answer, why the Teamsters bought it in the first place when local zoning ordinances specifically forbade using property in that neighborhood for such a purpose.

The counsel suggested to Ricca that the true reason the sale was made was because Ricca was a friend of Bert Brennan, a Teamster ally and pal of Hoffa.

Need For Money Cited
"Isn't it a fact you needed this money for a tax case you were involved in and that you prevailed on the Teamsters to buy the estate?" Kennedy demanded of Ricca.

The witness smiled, and invoked the Fifth Amendment once more.

Before putting Ricca on the stand, the committee listened to testimony that racketeers aided by Hoffa swiftly ran a Philadelphia restaurant unit $23,000 in debt.

It took them just eight or nine months, said William J. Brennan, an AFL official in Pennsylvania. He said all the Hoffa men left in the way of assets for the local was $400 worth of furniture and $52 cash.

Glennan Named Civilian Space Agency's Boss

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower Friday named Dr. T. Keith Glennan, president of the Case Institute of Technology in Cleveland, to head the nation's new civilian space agency.

The 52-year-old educator's nomination was sent to the Senate with that of Dr. Hugh L. Dryden to be his deputy administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA).

Dryden, head of the National Advisory Committee on Aeronautics (NACA) which will form the nucleus of the new agency, had figured in speculation as most likely to be put in charge of the NASA.

Members of the House Space Committee assailed Dryden earlier this week as advocating an unimaginative program. Among those critical of Dryden was House Democratic Leader John W. McCormack (Mass.).

The new space agency, which is to be set up by October, was created under legislation signed into law by the President last week. It will be responsible for all non-military rocket, missile and satellite efforts.

Live And Let Live Pledges, Aid Proposed

Lodge And Sobolev Clash On Purposes Of Assembly Meet

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld put before the opening session of the U.N. emergency General Assembly Friday a broad plan for insuring peace and economic stability in the Middle East.

Hammarskjöld called upon the Arab nations to reaffirm their adherence to pledges of non-aggression and non-interference in each other's affairs.

He also urged U.N. aid to improve economic and social conditions in the Arab countries, but said the U.N. should make clear the Arab states have the right to shape their own destiny as they see fit.

The opening Assembly session lasted only 35 minutes. It adjourned until 10:30 a.m. Wednesday for full-scale formal debate.

Before Hammarskjöld spoke Soviet Ambassador Arkady A. Sobolev and U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge engaged in a brief sharp exchange on purposes of the emergency session.

GI's Withdrawal Demanded
Sobolev demanded immediate action to get U.S. troops out of Lebanon and British troops out of Jordan, saying "their presence constitutes a danger to world peace."

Lodge accused the Soviet Union of seeking the Assembly session only to afford an opportunity for Soviet attacks on the United States.

In a statement outside the Assembly, Lodge welcomed Hammarskjöld's suggestions as a "constructive approach to the problems of the Middle East." He said the United States will give them "most careful and urgent study."

Hammarskjöld said he was offering suggestions to serve "as a basis on which members might wish to develop positive and constructive suggestions."

He declared continued presence of U.N. groups in Lebanon would underscore concern for the independence of that country.

Jordan Measures
As for Jordan, he suggested the U.N. consider strengthening of the U.N. Palestine truce observation machinery, and other "special measures" aimed at meeting the specific situation there.

He mentioned the U.N. emergency force in Palestine, but added that such U.N. groups and others "are only safeguards created to assist the governments concerned."

He said that if the Arab states should reaffirm principles of non-aggression and non-interference in each other's affairs it would aid U.N. efforts for the troubled area.

One Arab diplomat said this was aimed principally at President Nasser of the United Arab Republic.

Hammarskjöld said the U.N. has felt the need for prompting economic cooperation among all the Arab nations. But he added it would be helpful to consider specifically cooperation between the oil-producing and oil-transiting countries.

He suggested also the joint utilization of water resources.

Killed In Crash

HAGERSTOWN (AP) — Samuel S. Carter, 60, of Indianapolis, general manager of the Samuel S. Carter Construction Co., was killed Friday when his car struck a concrete bridge abutment on a county road about six miles west of here.

Other than to say Kierdorf indicated his uncle Herman Kierdorf was at the scene, Adams declined to discuss names. Herman, 68, is a former Detroit Teamsters business agent and an aide of Hoffa.

Hoffa's Brother Will Be Quizzed In 'Torch' Case

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Teamster boss James R. Hoffa's brother and a vice president of Hoffa's home local are to be questioned in the fatal burning of Teamster business agent Frank Kierdorf.

Michigan Atty. Gen. Paul L. Adams disclosed this Friday in saying that Kierdorf indicated on his deathbed he suffered his fatal burns in setting fire to a drycleaning shop Sunday night in Flint, Mich.

Adams said he would question William Hoffa, whom he identified as a brother of the international president of the Teamsters Union. But Adams did not indicate why or whether he might have been named in Kierdorf's deathbed answers to questions.

William Hoffa is a business agent of Teamsters Local 614 at Pontiac. Adams said he also would question Frank Fitzsimmons, vice president of Jimmy Hoffa's home Local 299 in Detroit, and Joseph Baines, another 614 business agent.

Adams said he viewed "with considerable skepticism" an interview with Kierdorf a couple of hours before he died Thursday. But he added: "We will follow through any leads. He did make it—the deathbed statement—although the doctor was doubtful he could communicate or understand."

Skepticism was heightened, Adams said, "because anything he gave us before was a tissue of lies." Kierdorf, 56, first said two gunmen who lured him from his Flint home on the pretext of union business made a torch of him. Investigation shot this story full of holes.

Deathbed questioning of Kierdorf, shortly after he was converted to Catholicism and baptized, was conducted by Tony Spiel, criminal investigation chief for Oakland County Prosecutor Frederick Ziem.

Adams said Kierdorf was asked to raise his arms to signify "yes" in answer to questions because he was unable to talk. He was asked about whether other Teamsters were with him when he was burned.

Nautilus Took TV Pictures Under Ice

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House said Friday the USS Nautilus took television pictures of the bottom side of the Arctic ice pack during its underwater voyage across the North Pole.

The sub was equipped with a closed television circuit with the camera pointing straight up from an aperture on the bridge to observe the ice.

Education Aid Bill Approved By House

Federal Scholarship Plan Eliminated

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House approved a 906 million dollar program of college loans and other space-age education aids Friday after striking out a controversial federal scholarship plan.

The measure was passed by voice vote after members rejected 139-233 a motion to kill the bill by sending it back to committee. This drive was led by Rep. Ralph Waldo Gwinn (R-N.Y.),

Unemployment Drop Smaller Than Expected

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Unemployment dipped slightly in July while the number of Americans holding jobs rose, but both trends were less favorable than the administration had hoped, the government reported Friday.

The Labor and Commerce Departments said in a joint report that employment climbed by 198,000 last month to a total of 65,179,000. The number of idle persons actively seeking work fell to 3,294,000, a drop of 143,000 from June's 17-year peak.

Both gains were smaller than usual for this time of year, however, with the result that the unemployment rate climbed from 6.8 per cent in June to 7.3 per cent in July after making allowances for this seasonal variation. The rate was 4.2 per cent a year ago.

The government report said the developments meant that the "overall job picture did not change significantly in July."

Gromyko Runs Show

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet government announced Friday that Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko would head Russia's delegation to the special United Nations General Assembly session on the Middle East emergency.

Administration Gives S.S. Bill Qualified Okay

WASHINGTON (AP) — An election-year proposal to raise Social Security benefits, and the taxes that pay for them, received qualified approval from the Eisenhower administration Friday.

A presidential veto was threatened, however, if the Senate passes the bill in the same form by which it cleared the House July 31 by the whopping majority of 375-2.

Secretary of Welfare Arthur S. Flemming told the Senate Finance Committee he believes the proposed seven per cent increase in monthly benefit payments is reasonable and desirable, and he is all for it.

But he balked at a part of the same bill that would raise the federal government's contributions to state-operated public assistance programs by 288 million dollars a year.

Flemming said that would only add 288 million dollars to the 12-billion-dollar federal deficit already in prospect for the coming year. He said President Eisenhower feels the states should pay a bigger share than they now do of the cost of these programs, which include aid to the needy aged, the blind, the permanently disabled, and dependent children.

"These programs are state programs, initiated by the states and administered by the states and communities," Flemming said.

"They are based on the sound concept that the states and local communities can best determine the actual needs of individuals and administer programs of assistance to them."

He suggested that this section be stripped out of the Social Security measure and put aside for more study next year. In response to a question by Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill.), Flemming said he would recommend a veto if this is not done.

Workers' Recall Set

DETROIT (UPI) — The auto industry will begin recalling more than 182,000 employees laid off because of model changeovers on Aug. 18, the industry's "big three" announced Friday.

Nautilus Skipper "Little Bit Dazed" By Hazardous Feat, Resulting Hoopla

WASHINGTON (AP) — The skipper of history's first sea voyage across the North Pole summed up his reaction in five words: "I'm a little bit dazed."

Handsome, 37-year-old Cmdr. W. R. Anderson, who hails from Waverly, Tenn., seemed at least as dazed by hoopla of a combined White House ceremony and news conference as he was by the hazardous voyage from Pearl Harbor to Iceland.

As a matter of fact, he reacted pretty coolly to the trip itself—in the face of the fact that the White House announced the feat with such fanfare as hasn't been seen here since disclosure of the plan for this country to launch an earth satellite.

Nobody seems to have suspected at that time that the Soviet Union would launch a satellite Nautilus on the last lap of its underdersea trip to Western Europe might prove he is not totally indispensable and therefore he may be out of a job.

The dark-haired commander said his feeling of being dazed resulted from his being flown from Iceland to a news conference well-touted in advance by White House press secretary James C. Hagerty. It was quite a change from days spent in the unprecedented cruise under the polar icecap, Anderson said a bit dryly.

He said he doubts very much that the Soviets ever spotted his submarine although it went through the Bering Strait very near their territory.

"If the Russians detected us, they're awfully good," Anderson said, adding that the entire trip was made in international waters.

Trans-Polar Voyage Made Under Ice Cap

Spectacular Feat By Nautilus Opens New Possibilities

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States atomic submarine Nautilus has crossed the top of the world, steaming swiftly and silently under the eternal ice of the North Pole.

The White House announced Friday a spectacular subsurface voyage from the Pacific to Atlantic by way of the Arctic Sea, which lies between the United States and Russia. It said the famous submarine had pioneered a submerged sea lane pointing to possible use by nuclear-powered submarines carrying commercial cargo.

But while President Eisenhower oriented his remarks to the peaceful possibilities of the route, it remains a fact that the Nautilus is a combat vessel.

If she can roam under the polar ice, so can the ballistic missile-carrying Polaris submarines now building.

The submarine's skipper, Cmdr. William R. Anderson, native of Bakerville, Tenn., received from Eisenhower the Legion of Merit. To the 116-man crew went a presidential unit citation.

The medal was pinned on the 37-year-old skipper in the White House announcement ceremony. The circumstances of the announcement—the secrecy preceding it and the drama of its setting—seemed to have significant overtones of a national prestige effort, 2,114 Miles Under Ice

Asked whose idea it was to send the Nautilus under the polar ice and beyond the North Pole, White House press secretary James C. Hagerty replied: "I think as much as anybody's it was the President's."

The Nautilus, the world's first nuclear-powered submersible, left the U.S. naval base at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, under high secrecy in the black, predawn hours of July 23.

She sailed silently and unnoticed to the north, up past the Aleutian Islands, through Bering Strait, between Alaska and Siberia, headed up toward the rolling, grinding fringe of pack ice in the arctic—and then on under it.

Above Point Barrow, Alaska, the Nautilus turned slightly eastward. For a few minutes on the morning of Aug. 1, she surfaced through one of the occasional openings in the ice field to make photographs. Then she slid beneath the surface again to resume her 2,114-mile long journey under ice.

Most of the time the polar ice above the stout-hulled vessel averaged about 12 feet in thickness. At some points, however, pressure ridges had thickened it to more than 50 feet.

Counterfire To Sputnik 1?
Coming out of the polar sea, the Nautilus headed down between Greenland and Iceland. There a helicopter picked up the skipper to start him on a quick plane trip to Washington and a "well done" from the President.

Was this American feat designed in part, as counterfire to the propaganda Russia made of her victory in launching the first Sputnik?

The secrecy plans for the Nautilus' long voyage from the Pacific to Atlantic via the North Pole appeared to have included arrangements designed to deceive everyone until the trip was an accomplished fact.

Months ago, the Navy announced that the Nautilus, which last summer had made a trip to within a few hundred miles of the North Pole after leaving and then re-entering the Atlantic, would make another cruise up there this summer.

The announcement said she would be one of three submarines to do survey work in the arctic—accompanied by the atomic submarine Skate and the conventionally powered Halfbeak. At that time, the Nautilus was bound for her second trip to the Pacific on what the Navy took pains to say was a routine training cruise.

Education Aid Bill Approved By House Federal Scholarship Plan Eliminated

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House approved a 906 million dollar program of college loans and other space-age education aids Friday after striking out a controversial federal scholarship plan.

The measure was passed by voice vote after members rejected 139-233 a motion to kill the bill by sending it back to committee. This drive was led by Rep. Ralph Waldo Gwinn (R-N. Y.).

About half the money authorized by the bill would go for loans to enable needy students to attend college. Although a chief aim of the bill was to bolster science training, the loans would contain no strings requiring recipients to study such courses.

The bill, designed to meet Russia's educational challenge in the Sputnik era, also would provide 260 million dollars in grants for science, language and mathematics equipment in public schools and junior colleges.

Other features would provide for 5,500 graduate fellowships, aid to colleges to expand graduate teacher training, funds for language institutes and for guidance and testing programs in the public schools.

The Labor and Commerce Departments said in a joint report that employment climbed by 198,000 last month to a total of 65,179,000. The number of idle persons actively seeking work fell to 5,294,000, a drop of 143,000 from June's 17-year peak.

Administration Gives S.S. Bill Qualified Okay

WASHINGTON (AP) — An election-year proposal to raise Social Security benefits, and the taxes that pay for them, received qualified approval from the Eisenhower administration Friday.

A presidential veto was threatened, however, if the Senate passes the bill in the same form by which it cleared the House July 31 by the whopping majority of 375-2.

Secretary of Welfare Arthur S. Flemming told the Senate Finance Committee he believes the proposed seven per cent increase in monthly benefit payments is reasonable and desirable, and he is all for it.

But he balked at a part of the same bill that would raise the federal government's contributions to state-operated public assistance programs by 288 million dollars a year.

Flemming said that would only add 288 million dollars to the 12-billion-dollar federal deficit already in prospect for the coming year.

He said President Eisenhower feels the states should pay a bigger share than they now do of the cost of these programs, which include aid to the needy aged, the blind, the permanently disabled, and dependent children.

"These programs are state programs, initiated by the states and administered by the states and communities," Flemming said.

"They are based on the sound concept that the states and local communities can best determine the actual needs of individuals and administer programs of assistance to them."

He suggested that this section be stripped out of the Social Security measure and put aside for more study next year. In response to a question by Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill.), Flemming said he would recommend a veto if this is not done.

Trans-Polar Voyage Made Under Ice Cap

Spectacular Feat By Nautilus Opens New Possibilities

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States atomic submarine Nautilus has crossed the top of the world, steaming swiftly and silently under the eternal ice of the North Pole.

The White House announced Friday a spectacular subsurface voyage from the Pacific to Atlantic by way of the Arctic Sea, which lies between the United States and Russia. It said the famous submarine had pioneered a submerged sea lane pointing to possible use by nuclear-powered submarines carrying commercial cargo.

But while President Eisenhower oriented his remarks to the peaceful possibilities of the route, it remains a fact that the Nautilus is a combat vessel.

If she can roam under the polar ice, so can the ballistic missile-carrying Polaris submarines now building.

The submarine's skipper, Cmdr. William R. Anderson, native of Bakerville, Tenn., received from Eisenhower the Legion of Merit. To the 116-man crew went a presidential unit citation.

The medal was pinned on the 37-year-old skipper in the White House announcement ceremony.

The circumstances of the announcement—the secrecy preceding it and the drama of its setting—seemed to have significant overtones of a national prestige effort, 2,114 Miles Under Ice

Asked whose idea it was to send the Nautilus under the polar ice and beyond the North Pole, White House press secretary James C. Hagerty replied: "I think as much as anybody's it was the President's."

The Nautilus, the world's first nuclear-powered submersible, left the U. S. naval base at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, under high secrecy in the black, predawn hours of July 23.

She sailed silently and unnoticed to the north, up past the Aleutian Islands, through Bering Strait, headed toward the rolling, grinding fringe of pack ice in the arctic—and then on under it.

Above Point Barrow, Alaska, the Nautilus turned slightly eastward. For a few minutes on the morning of Aug. 1, she surfaced through one of the occasional openings in the ice field to make photographs. Then she slid beneath the surface again to resume her 2,114-mile long journey under ice.

Most of the time the polar ice above the stout-hulled vessel averaged about 12 feet in thickness. At some points, however, pressure ridges had thickened it to more than 50 feet.

Counterfire To Sputnik 1? Coming out of the polar sea, the Nautilus headed down between Greenland and Iceland. There a helicopter picked up the skipper to start him on a quick plane trip to Washington and a "well done" from the President.

Was this American feat designed in part, as counterfire to the propaganda Russia made of her victory in launching the first Sputnik?

The secrecy plans for the Nautilus' long voyage from the Pacific to Atlantic via the North Pole appeared to have included arrangements designed to deceive everyone until the trip was an accomplished fact.

Months ago, the Navy announced that the Nautilus, which last summer had made a trip to within a few hundred miles of the North Pole after leaving and then re-entering the Atlantic, would make another cruise up there this summer.

The announcement said she would be one of three submarines to do survey work in the arctic—accompanied by the atomic submarine Skate and the conventional-powered Halfbeak. At that time, the Nautilus was bound for her second trip to the Pacific on what the Navy took pains to say was a routine training cruise.

The dark-haired commander said his feeling of being dazed resulted from his being flown from Iceland to a news conference well-touted in advance by White House press secretary James C. Hagerty. It was quite a change from days spent in the unprecedented cruise under the polar icecap, Anderson said a bit dazedly.

He said he doubts very much that the Soviets ever spotted his submarine although it went through the Bering Strait very near their territory.

"If the Russians detected us, they're awfully good," Anderson said, adding that the entire trip was made in international waters.

He quipped that he was a little bit afraid his absence from the Nautilus on the last lap of its undersea trip to Western Europe might prove he is not totally indispensable and therefore he may be out of a job.

State Police Major Upheld In Dormant Warrant Case

Corporal Failed To Go Through Channels

BALTIMORE (AP)—A State Police board of inquiry said Friday a corporal failed to go through channels and that a police major acted properly in suspending three warrants the corporal had obtained against a Baltimore contractor.

The board recommended that two of the warrants against Sidney S. Sappington be dismissed but that a third, charging reckless driving, be processed.

Corp. Marlin S. Clevenger had obtained the warrants in May of last year. Major William H. Weber ordered service on them suspended after he had been contacted by Sappington.

The dormant warrants weren't brought to light until July 17 of this year by the managing director of the Criminal Justice Commission, Alvin J. T. Zumbur.

The board of inquiry said Weber used "prudent judgment" in stopping service on the warrants. The board of three State Police captains also recommended that Weber be commended.

It said Clevenger had given the warrants to Trooper Ross Sparks for service but the warrants should have been processed through channels.

The board said Clevenger should be "admonished to properly process all departmental matters through official channels and in the established administrative manner in the future."

Police Sup't. Elmer F. Munshower said he would "execute the recommendations of the report without modification."

After the warrants were made public it was brought out that Clevenger, while off duty and driving north of Annapolis, stopped a car. He said it was weaving in and out of traffic.

While Clevenger was telephoning the police barracks at Waterloo the car left but the corporal had the license number and swore out the warrants against Sappington. They charged drunken driving, reckless driving and disorderly conduct.

The board said Sappington told him he did not believe Clevenger was an officer because he was not in uniform and that he argued with the man. He then drove off.

Sappington further told the investigators he has a nervous condition with symptoms similar to intoxication.

The rezoning hearing has been postponed pending a decision in the suit. It had been expected to attract many service station operators and others who have voiced opposition to the state leasing plan.

The complaint claims the SRC is an agency of the sovereign state and "enjoys the immunity of such sovereign from the local laws and regulations of any of its counties."

Divorcee Kills Boy Friend, Self

FREDERICK (AP)—A 25-year-old divorcee shot and killed her boy friend, then fatally wounded herself, police reported Friday.

William Franklin Fogle, 39, was found dead on the second floor of his cabin a mile south of here. Lillian Florence Fogle died on the way from a Frederick hospital to a Hagerstown hospital.

Officers said it was only coincidence that the two had the same last name. They were not related or married but had been dating each other.

State Police said the woman, who lived here, went to Fogle's cabin early Friday morning. He was shot in the head. She was found wounded in the head from a .22 caliber pistol.

A neighbor, Clarence Koontz, said he heard Fogle call for help about 6 a.m., went to the cabin and found the two. He called police.

Husky Man Sought In Woman's Slaying

BALTIMORE (AP)—Police said Friday they have circulated throughout Maryland a description of a powerfully-built man witnesses said may have been trailing Mrs. Ethel Francis before she was slain.

The 57-year-old grandmother was found strangled in Clifton Park last Monday.

Police disclosed two men reported seeing a man about 6 feet two inches tall and weighing 200 pounds following a woman whose description matched that of the victim.

Police believe the woman seen was definitely Mrs. Francis.

An artist's conception of the man also was circulated.

He was described as full faced, with a mustache, a slightly hooked nose and muscular. He was either heavily sunburned or of naturally dark complexion.

Refused Movie Money, Boy, 13, Shoots Mother

RED BLUFF, Calif. (AP)—A 13-year-old boy shot and critically wounded his mother Thursday because she wouldn't give him money to take a girl to the movies.

Mrs. Edna C. Guice, 50, mother of five, is paralyzed from the waist down. The bullet pierced her spine.

Corning police officer Bob Chapman said the boy, Billy, himself summoned police to his home and readily admitted: "I put a bullet in the gun and pulled the trigger."

Billy, youngest of five, is held by juvenile authorities.

Ellington Wins Governor Race In Tennessee

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Burford Ellington, running with Gov. Frank Clement's blessing, clung to a slim but sufficient lead Friday to win the Democratic gubernatorial nomination. Sen. Albert Gore won renomination Thursday night.

Returns from 2,459 of the state's 2,528 precincts gave Ellington 210,062 and Gore 361,839 votes. Former Gov. Prentice Cooper, seeking to unseat Gore, got 241,490. Ellington's closest opponent, Memphis Mayor Edmund Orrill, polled 203,580 to 202,997 for Andrew T. Taylor a circuit judge.

There is no runoff election in Tennessee, and nomination is tantamount to election.

After stopping an early Cooper surge, Gore never fell behind and his victory was assured before midnight. Ellington held on grimly to a steadily closing lead and by midnight Friday there weren't enough uncounted votes to beat him.

In Washington, Gore's victory was hailed by self-styled Northern liberal senators as a victory for an enlightened position on civil rights in the South. His Southern colleagues, however, called it a personal victory for Gore.

Cooper pegged most of his campaign to Gore's vote for the compromise civil rights bill, his failure to sign the Southern manifesto and what Cooper called Gore's global giveaway trade program.

Insects Damaging Trees, Crops In State

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—The Maryland Crop Reporting Service said Friday that insects were damaging trees and crops in two counties.

A concentration of variable oak caterpillars in areas of Cecil County had defoliated oak trees.

"It looks as if a forest fire has gone through," reported County Agent Raymond G. Mueller.

He said the heaviest concentration of damage was around Port Deposit and Rising Sun and along the Susquehanna River.

Dr. William E. Bickley, head of the University of Maryland's Entomology Department, said there was nothing economically practical that could be done to erase the insects. He said natural enemies of the caterpillars would reduce their forces within a few weeks.

Talbot County Agent Roscoe Brown reported an outbreak of grasshoppers especially in the Miles River neck area. He said they were being brought under control by phleptachlor sprayed from low-flying airplanes.

Florida has 130 thousand more people moving into it than move out in an average year.

State Scientists Probing 'Red Water' Crab Deaths

SOLOMONS, Md. (AP)—State scientists Friday began investigating the death of hundreds of pounds of crabs this week in the Tangier Sound area of Chesapeake Bay.

The investigation was touched off when crabbers from Smith Island reported a high mortality among catches in their crab pots and the death of fish and other marine life.

They said the water had a reddish or brown color most of the week.

Biologists were sent to the Eastern Shore area from the Tidewater

Fisheries Commission in Annapolis and the Chesapeake Biological Laboratory here.

They reported that the coloration has left the water, no dead fish were seen and the crab pot catches are lively again.

Dr. R. Eugene Cronin, director of the lab, said there were other reports of some water coloration and crab mortality along the Calvert County coast on the Western Shore.

He said this indicates the wind may have brought some of the toxic agent across the bay.

Dr. Cronin said such mortality sometimes occurs in deep water of the bay, particularly during rainy summers, and may be attributed to a low oxygen supply in the water.

But he said the answer evidently is not so simple this time because the mortality occurred in some shallow areas where tests showed an abundant supply of oxygen.

Dr. Cronin said the circumstances suggest the crab losses may have been caused by some micro-organism in the water which blooms when certain conditions are just right.

These tiny organisms evidently have a toxic effect on crabs and other marine life and may be broken up and moved about by wind and tide, he said.

Smith Island is located off Somerset County near the Maryland-Virginia border. Dr. Cronin said the Virginia Fisheries Commission is assisting in the investigation.

Such effects of reddish water have been reported from time to time before, but Dr. Cronin said this report indicated a persistence of the toxic condition for an unusually long time.

Circuit Judge Reveals Threat Made On Life

HAGERSTOWN, Md. (AP)—Circuit Judge D. K. McLaughlin disclosed Friday he had been left a note threatening to kill him the day before four Baltimore youths went on trial for the fatal beating of another inmate of the Reformatory for Males.

McLaughlin said he kept quiet about the note until after he finished sentencing the four this morning. However, precautions were taken Thursday to put extra police guards around the court house when the four came up for trial.

The note was found on the judge's bench Wednesday. It was written on paper yellowed from age. It read:

"Dear Judge: I am one of your former convicts. They just let me out of Sing Sing. I am going to come back and kill you. Have fun!"

It was signed "Your humble servant, Frankenstein." A sketch of the mechanical monster was at the bottom.

Judge McLaughlin meted out maximum sentences to the four youths held for the beating of William Clark, 18, last May 23.

Robert G. Hartman Jr., Louis O. J. Shuman and Lawrence Beach, all 19, were sentenced to 18 years. They pleaded guilty to second degree murder.

Judge McLaughlin told them they were fortunate they had not elected to stand trial on the charge of first degree. He said the Clark case was the most brutal to come before him. He said he felt that a jury would not have recommended leniency.

Avery L. Lee, 18, chose to stand trial and was convicted of manslaughter by a jury yesterday. Lee reiterated his innocence to the judge before being sentenced to 10 years Friday morning.

Clark was beaten, kicked and stomped at the reformatory a few days after he was admitted to the reformatory. He died nearly a month later in the hospital.

4 Youths Have Narrow Escape

ARDWICK, Md. (AP)—Four youths from Landover Hills, Md., jumped to safety Thursday night only seconds before a speeding Pennsylvania Railroad train bore down on their stalled 1956 car and demolished it.

The near-tragedy occurred at a road crossing near this Prince Georges County community.

Max Alan Reed, 20, driver of the car, told police one of the wheels got stuck between the tracks as he was backing around.

Suddenly, from the distance came the headlight of a fast passenger train headed toward Washington.

"It was coming around the bend with its horn sounding," Reed said. "All we could do was jump out and run. I watched the car get hit as I looked over my shoulder while running. There were sparks and parts flying everywhere."

Police estimated damage to the train, which stayed on the tracks, at $150.

Reed identified his passengers as Timothy McCarthy, 14; Mickey Embrey, 19, and Larry Caruana, 17.

479 N.Y. Pedestrians Get Traffic Tickets

NEW YORK (UPI)—This was a happy day for New York City motorists.

Police began handing out tickets to pedestrians, for jaywalking and other violations. A total of 479 walkers received summonses in the first eight hours of pedestrian traffic enforcement. They were ordered to pay $2 fines.

State Police Major Upheld In Dormant Warrant Case

Corporal Failed To Go Through Channels

BALTIMORE (AP)—A State Police board of inquiry said Friday a corporal failed to go through channels and that a police major acted properly in suspending three warrants the corporal had obtained against a Baltimore contractor.

The board recommended that two of the warrants against Sid-

Suit To Settle Zoning Question Is Filed By SRC

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—The State Roads Commission has asked the courts to declare that it need not comply with Anne Arundel County zoning laws in establishing a service area on a highway within the county.

The suit for a declaratory decree was filed in Anne Arundel County Circuit Court Friday by Joseph D. Buscher, special assistant attorney general, and James C. Morton Jr., Annapolis attorney.

It named the county commissioners, the planning and zoning commission and the planning administrator as respondents.

The suit involves the state's plans for construction and leasing of a service station-restaurant facility on the Baltimore-Washington Expressway near the intersection with Dorsey Road.

The roads commission had requested rezoning of the proposed site from agriculture to heavy commerce, and a hearing on the request was set by the county planning and zoning commission.

Then the SRC decided it was not subject to the county zoning laws and announced it was filing a suit to determine the question.

The rezoning hearing has been postponed pending a decision in the suit. It had been expected to attract many service station operators and others who have voiced opposition to the state leasing plan.

The complaint claims the SRC is an agency of the sovereign state and "enjoys the immunity of such sovereign from the local laws and regulations of any of its counties."

Divorcee Kills Boy Friend, Self

FREDERICK (AP)—A 25-year-old divorcee shot and killed her boy friend, then fatally wounded herself, police reported Friday.

William Franklin Fogle, 39, was found dead on the second floor of his cabin a mile south of here. Lillian Florence Fogle died on the way from a Frederick hospital to a Hagerstown hospital.

Officers said it was only coincidence that the two had the same last name. They were not related or married but had been dating each other.

State Police said the woman, who lived here, went to Fogle's cabin early Friday morning. She was shot in the head. She was found wounded in the head from a .22 caliber pistol.

A neighbor, Clarence Koontz, said he heard Fogle call for help about 6 a.m., went to the cabin and found the two. He called police.

Husky Man Sought In Woman's Slaying

BALTIMORE (AP)—Police said Friday they have circulated throughout Maryland a description of a powerfully-built man witness said may have been trailing Mrs. Ethel Francis before she was slain.

The 57-year-old grandmother was found strangled in Clifton Park last Monday.

Police disclosed two men reported seeing a man about 6 feet 2 inches tall and weighing 200 pounds following a woman whose description matched that of the victim.

Police believe the woman seen was definitely Mrs. Francis.

An artist's conception of the man also was circulated.

He was described as full faced, with a mustache, a slightly hooked nose and muscular. He was either heavily sunburned or of naturally dark complexion.

Refused Movie Money, Boy, 13, Shoots Mother

RED BLUFF, Calif. (AP)—A 13-year-old boy shot and critically wounded his mother Thursday because she wouldn't give him money to take a girl to the movies.

Mrs. Edna C. Guice, 50, mother of five, is paralyzed from the waist down. The bullet pierced her spine.

Corning police officer Bob Chapman said the boy, Billy, himself summoned police to his home and readily admitted: "I put a bullet in the gun and pulled the trigger."

Billy, youngest of five, is held by juvenile authorities.

Ellington Wins Governor Race In Tennessee

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Burford Ellington, running with Gov. Frank Clement's blessing, clung to a slim but sufficient lead Friday to win the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

Sen. Albert Gore won renomination Thursday night.

Returns from 2,459 of the state's 2,528 precincts gave Ellington 210,062 and Gore 361,839 votes. Former Gov. Prentice Cooper, seeking to unseat Gore, got 241,490. Ellington's closest opponent, Memphis Mayor Edmund Orgill, polled 203,580 to 202,997 for Andrew T. Taylor, circuit judge.

There is no runoff election in Tennessee, and nomination is tantamount to election.

After stopping an early Cooper surge, Gore never fell behind and his victory was assured before midnight. Ellington held on grimly to a steadily closing lead and by midnight Friday there weren't enough uncounted votes to beat him.

In Washington, Gore's victory was hailed by self-styled Northern liberal senators as a victory for an enlightened position on civil rights in the South. His Southern colleagues, however, called it a personal victory for Gore.

Cooper pegged most of his campaign to Gore's vote for the compromise civil rights bill, his failure to sign the Southern Manifesto and what Cooper called Gore's global giveaway trade program.

Insects Damaging Trees, Crops In State

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—The Maryland Crop Reporting Service said Friday that insects were damaging trees and crops in two counties.

A concentration of variable oak caterpillars in areas of Cecil County had defoliated oak trees.

"It looks as if a forest fire has gone through," reported County Agent Raymond G. Mueller.

He said the heaviest concentration of damage was around Potomac and Rising Sun and along the Susquehanna River.

Dr. William E. Bickley, head of the University of Maryland's Entomology Department, said there was nothing economically practical that could be done to erase the insects. He said natural enemies of the caterpillars would reduce their forces within a few weeks.

Talbot County Agent Roscoe Brown reported an outbreak of grasshoppers especially in the Miles River neck area. He said they were being brought under control by phleptachlor sprayed from low-flying airplanes.

Florida has 130 thousand more people moving into it than move out in an average year.

State Scientists Probing 'Red Water' Crab Deaths

SOLOMONS, Md. (AP)—State scientists Friday began investigating the death of hundreds of pounds of crabs this week in the Tangier Sound area of Chesapeake Bay.

The investigation was touched off when crabbers from Smith Island reported a high mortality among catches in their crab pots and the death of fish and other marine life.

They said the water had a reddish or brown color most of the week.

Biologists were sent to the Eastern Shore area from the Tidewater

Circuit Judge Reveals Threat Made On Life

HAGERSTOWN, Md. (AP)—Circuit Judge D. K. McLaughlin disclosed Friday he had been left a note threatening to kill him the day before four Baltimore youths went on trial for the fatal beating of another inmate of the Reformatory for Males.

McLaughlin said he kept quiet about the note until after he finished sentencing the four this morning. However, precautions were taken Thursday to put extra police guards around the court house when the four came up for trial.

The note was found on the judge's bench Wednesday. It was written on paper yellowed from age. It read:

"Dear Judge: I am one of your former convicts. They just let me out of Sing Sing. I am going to come back and kill you. Have fun!"

It was signed "Your humble servant, Frankenstein." A sketch of the mechanical monster was at the bottom.

Judge McLaughlin meted out maximum sentences to the four youths held for the beating of William Clark, 18, last May 23.

Robert G. Hartman Jr., Louis O. J. Shuman and Lawrence Beach, all 19, were sentenced to 18 years. They pleaded guilty to second degree murder.

Judge McLaughlin told them they were fortunate they had not elected to stand trial on the charge of first degree. He said the Clark case was the most brutal to come before him. He said he felt that a jury would not have recommended leniency.

Avery L. Lee, 18, chose to stand trial and was convicted of manslaughter by a jury yesterday. Lee reiterated his innocence to the judge before being sentenced to 10 years Friday morning.

Clark was beaten, kicked and stomped at the reformatory a few days after he was admitted to the reformatory. He died nearly a month later in the hospital.

4 Youths Have Narrow Escape

ARDWICK, Md. (AP)—Four youths from Landover Hills, Md., jumped to safety Thursday night only seconds before a speeding Pennsylvania Railroad train bore down on their stalled 1956 car and demolished it.

The near-tragedy occurred at a road crossing near this Prince Georges County community.

Max Alan Reed, 20, driver of the car, told police one of the wheels got stuck between the tracks as he was backing around. Suddenly, from the distance came the headlight of a fast-passenger train headed toward Washington.

"It was coming around the bend with its horn sounding," Reed said. "All we could do was jump out and run. I watched the car get hit as I looked over my shoulder while running. There were sparks and parts flying everywhere."

Police estimated damage to the train, which stayed on the tracks, at $150.

Reed identified his passengers as Timothy McCarthy, 14; Mickey Embrey, 19, and Larry Caruana, 17.

479 N.Y. Pedestrians Get Traffic Tickets

NEW YORK (UPI)—This was a happy day for New York City motorists.

Police began handing out tickets to pedestrians for jaywalking and other violations. A total of 479 walkers received summonses in the first eight hours of pedestrian traffic enforcement. They were ordered to pay $2 fines.

UNEMPLOYMENT DOWN LONDON (UPI)—The Labor Ministry announced Friday that there were 412,000 unemployed in Britain in mid-July, 17,000 fewer than in June. The new total represented 1.9 per cent of Britain's labor force.

Secrets Of Charm by John Robert Powers

Wearing what is appropriate to the occasion (and this includes the proper jewelry, of course) is the secret of the well-dressed woman.

But strangely enough, when it comes to selecting jewelry that is in keeping with the function, many women aren't sure of themselves.

Women of good taste are all collectors of jewelry and should be familiar with the occasions it should be worn. For example, in travelling by train, car or plane—even for a weekend to the country—only the most tailored jewelry should be worn. Large diamond or rhinestone pieces are out of bounds for a woman of taste.

On the golf course, a simple gold wrist watch with a leather strap is in good, quiet taste. Naturally, a jangling bracelet would be inappropriate and would interfere with an important swing. Diamonds, emeralds and precious jewels, again, should be left at home. Since a golfer's costume is tailored, gold jewelry is appropriate . . . a pin of gold is becoming as it usually sheds its glow upon the complexion as well as adding smartness to costume.

Secrets Of Charm by John Robert Powers

The Right Touch

Wearing what is appropriate to the occasion (and this includes the proper jewelry, of course) is the secret of the well-dressed woman.

But strangely enough, when it comes to selecting jewelry that is in keeping with the function, many women aren't sure of themselves.

Women of good taste are all collectors of jewelry and should be familiar with the occasions it should be worn. For example, in traveling by train, car or plane—even for a weekend to the country—only the most tailored jewelry should be worn. Large diamond or rhinestone pieces are out of bounds for a woman of taste.

Of course, the one exception is always the engagement and the wedding rings, which are always appropriate.

When you go to the beach, wearing precious stones would most certainly be pretentious. It would also be foolish, for jewelry shouldn't be subjected to the danger of surf and sand. If some adornment is desired, why not choose colored seashells, straw flowers or wooden ornaments for an enchanting look?

On the golf course, a simple gold wrist watch with a leather strap is in good, quiet taste. Naturally, a jangling bracelet would be inappropriate and would interfere with an important swing. Diamonds, emeralds and precious jewels, again, should be left at home. Since a golfer's costume is tailored, gold jewelry is appropriate. . . . a pin of gold is becoming as it usually sheds its glow upon the complexion as well as adding smartness to costume.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Day	Book	Chapter	Verses
Sunday	John	8	12
Monday	John	1	1-5
Tuesday	Matthew	5	14-16
Wednesday	Ephesians	5	8
Thursday	1 Thessalonians	5	5

Over the altar of a church in Philadelphia this huge window tells the story of the life of Christ. But it speaks only to those who gaze upon it reverently.

Through the centuries the Holy Bible has revealed to men the Light of the World . . . but only to those who will read it and hear it preached.

Every day a wondrous light seems to shine in the faces of those whose hearts have been touched by God. And amid the turmoil of our worldly confusion we are transfixed again and again by the warm glow of someone's Christian countenance.

These too are windows of God.

This light could shine from our faces as well. That's why the Church seeks us all.

Misconceptions Of The Sciences

A recent report issued by the Science Manpower Project of Teachers College, Columbia University, has brought to light one of the basic problems of science instruction in the public schools. This is that many instructors, including those in science departments, have not kept up with the fast pace of modern science.

The Columbia project — supported by 30 national industries and guided by the Joint Industry-Education Advisory Council—is part of a five-year plan to improve science teaching. The report issued by this group was based on answers given in questionnaires by 662 teachers and 70 scientists.

Many scientific tenets, accepted by the scientists as basic concepts, were rejected entirely or in part by much of the teaching profession. For example, the statement, "the pronouncements of science are tentative," was included in the questionnaire, with the individuals requested to indicate their agreement or disagreement.

Eighty per cent of the scientists agreed with this statement, but the teachers—half of whom disagreed—indicated their ignorance of the revolutionary nature of modern science. Commented Prof. Hubart M. Evans, assistant director of the project, "If, as this study seems to show, many science teachers express opinions and attitudes which indicate misunderstandings, even misconceptions, about the nature of science, then we face a problem of the first magnitude in training science teachers."

Disagreements between those who are responsible for the achievements of science and those who have elected to inform others on such achievements, particularly on the subject matter to be taught, indicate a lack of correlation between the two professions. Such disagreements can only serve to further confuse an already complex subject in the schools.

Perhaps the answer lies in periodic refresher courses for science instructors.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Herbert Hoover At 84

The wheel of life turns, and our ex-President, Herbert Hoover again encounters a birthday on August 10. To him it is no great matter, for he has found in a long and useful life that birthdays, like politicians, come and go, and that one day is as good as another, depending upon how useful one can be.

This has not been the pleasantest year for Herbert Hoover, as during one part of it, he was put into a hospital to have his gall bladder taken out, which is really something for a man of his age; but as he would say, as the years go on, the parts get worn and it is not easy to get spare parts. Still, the doctors have done quite a job what with the blood banks and eye banks, etc., and the day may yet come when what is worn out will be replaced.

From another standpoint, the past year has been quite a glorious one for Herbert Hoover. First, he wrote and had published his book, "The Ordeal of Woodrow Wilson." It was a labor of love and he did not expect too much of it but it became a best seller. Herbert Hoover is engaged in writing a massive work on our foreign policy and has done a research, worthy of a dozen youngsters seeking their Ph.D.'s, in the course of which he came upon considerable unpublished material, some of which he has used in his work on Woodrow Wilson.

Although a Republican, Herbert Hoover served under Wilson and admired him greatly. One of the paradoxes of Hoover's life was that when he was in politics, he was regarded as an isolationist, although before he came into politics, he was regarded as so internationalistic as to be a man without a country. Naturally, both views were so extreme as to be wrong. Hoover was definitely associated with the ideas of Woodrow Wilson, some of which he helped to form. He believed in the League of Nations or some such body as a means of negotiating against war. He had played a great role in World War I and knew not only the perils of this game, but its lasting evil effects. As a Quaker, he had been for peace; as a citizen, he had learned to hate it; and as a Quaker, he would save Man from its recurrence.

His book, "The Ordeal of Woodrow Wilson," is, to a degree, a contribution to the cause of orderly and respectful peace, written by a man of 83, who has seen the world at its worst and at its best.

Another joy of this past year was his trip to the World's Fair in Brussels. Hoover has always had a deep affection for Belgium, a country which he fed and saved while so many of his contemporaries talked about what might be done. His Belgian Relief, during World War I, encountered insuperable difficulties, all of which Hoover met, even if it meant quarreling with Lloyd George and Winston Churchill who opposed his work lest it aid the Germans, too.

So, President Eisenhower appointed Herbert Hoover to represent the United States at the Brussels World's Fair on July 4. And the Belgian Government named July 5, Herbert Hoover Day and the people showed that they meant it. So he had two wonderful days in Belgium, during which he delivered two notable addresses and came back astonished that the people of Belgium really never forgot an old fellow who did well by them when he was young. It was a beautiful moment in his late life.

Hoover, of course, is out of politics. Every day he sits long hours, engaged in research and in writing. He will turn out another five books or so, God willing. He has them under his belt, as it were. His mind is keen, his judgement of men and events mellowed, his sense of humor sharpened. Perhaps he is a bit cynical about the great of the day, but if one has lived long, it is impossible not to note that all great men start as little boys and possibly much of the little boy remains. His greatest spiritual strength came from his knowing no enemies and remembering no hatreds. Those who threw barbs at him, he welcomes as he does old friends, for he has forgotten the barbs.

Get Ready For The Chain Reaction

The Need For Courage In A Frightened World

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Sometimes in a few sentences in a public utterance there is epitomized the whole background of a crisis in the world. Secretary of State Dulles, speaking in Brazil this week, said:

"The international situation is critical. Atheistic, materialistic, and aggressive forces that would dominate all the world, talk boldly, they suggest that efforts to halt them will mean nuclear war."

"We do not in fact believe they want war or would invoke war. No sane people want war. War would be for all an inexpressible disaster."

"The question is whether their threats will cause us to weaken and give in and thus sacrifice the genuine independence of nation after nation. That is not the path to peace. It is the road to war."

The foregoing is an eloquent answer to those critics here and abroad who frivolously exclaim that "America has no foreign policy."

It is a courageous answer to those who keep on giving the impression that the American people are terrorized and that there is only one thing to do — to make concession after concession to the Soviets and the Red Chinese as well as to their stooges in the Middle East.

Many a so-called "plan" has been proposed by panicky-minded persons who seem to feel that the alternative to war is just plain surrender. They cloak their proposals in fancy phrases — indeed, they bring out the old clichés about "neutralization" of certain regions and talk glibly about "bold and imaginative ideas" for "revising American policy." But paths of appeasement lead only to the same goal — defeatism.

For there are only two ways to try to maintain peace in the world. One of them involves military force, and this not always, but sometimes, means war. The other involves moral force, and this — when backed by a unified country and a willingness to use military force if every other effort fails — could succeed in keeping peace.

Some of the critics have derisively called this "brinkmanship." They use the term because Secretary Dulles once endeavored to express the need for courage in foreign policy and said that sometimes it is necessary to go to the "brink of war" in order to avoid war. He did not mean that he would merely resort to bluff. What he did mean is that, while it is imperative to exhaust every means of making a settlement, no nation which believes in the justness of its cause can avoid going to the very brink of war itself if that is necessary to impress its adversary that it is deeply in earnest.

There is a great advantage in applying moral force to the limit. If, for instance, war does come, it is then recognized by the people as the only choice left. Moral force means public discussion, good propaganda, debate in the forum of the United Nations General Assembly or in the press of the world or over the air waves. The theory is that peoples will control the hand of a government that threatens war. This is logical up to the point where censorship and suppression of ideas by a totalitarian government build an insurmountable barrier to communication between peoples.

Just now America has the most convincing case a nation ever had in the international arena. The United States stands for maintenance of the territorial integrity and political independence of all nations and is willing to supply military might, if necessary, to uphold that principle. For this is the key to peace in the Middle East and in every other area. To condone aggression, direct or indirect, is eventually to invite a world war.

America's record is untarnished. Though engaged victoriously in two world wars to defend its interests, it has not annexed a single foot of territory. When it has landed Marines anywhere, the reason always has been to protect the lives and property of its own citizens. The United States sent military forces to the Middle East last month to accomplish two purposes — to protect American lives there and to help preserve the political independence of a small nation, thus demonstrating to the Communists and their allies that the people and government of this country are not pacifistic but ready to fight in the future as in the past for a just cause.

The fact that America itself may be in military danger unless such a determined stand is taken now is not perhaps generally appreciated. It wasn't widely understood either during the 1930s when it was being said that, in the battle between the Democracies and Fascism, the "frontiers of the United States are on the Rhine." So today the "frontiers" in the defense of America may be in the Middle East.

The United States has drawn a line in the Far East beyond which it has said the Communist forces must not advance. In an analogous fashion — through the Truman and Eisenhower Doctrines — notification has been given that Communistic infiltration of free countries in Europe and the Middle East can reach a point where, if necessary, it will be challenged by arms. The hope is that peoples everywhere will perceive the real issue and restrain any dictatorship governments from taking chances in a delicate situation that could break down the peace of the world.

I've been through enough depressions to know one when it sees me. And, believe me or Ripley, this was not one.

That's as close as you can shave to a silly recession that had no more reason than a head-

Admiral Stump Warned U.S. Military Leaders Of Trouble With Red China

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — The sudden, secret Pekin conference between Khrushchev and Mao Tse-tung was preceded some weeks earlier by a confidential warning from Admiral Felix Stump, American naval commander in the Far East, that trouble might be brewing with the Red Chinese.

Admiral Stump flew to Washington to attend the secret military strategy meeting at Quantico, Va., where he warned our highest military leaders that U. S. Naval Forces in the Pacific were inadequate, our carriers wearing out, and that we had neglected our Far Eastern friends.

Some of the Communist maneuvering on the mainland of China especially worried Stump. The Chinese Reds have a growing economic problem, and war could be a desperate way out. With modern medicine and better living conditions now prevailing in parts of China, the Chinese population is bulging. One thing that alarmed Admiral Stump was the statement by Chinese leaders that in case of war China could afford to lose half its population. It would still have 300,000,000 left.

Human life in China has long been the cheapest of all commodities. This was one reason for the waves of suicide troops thrown against American lines in the Korean war. It is also one reason why American military strategists have long feared the belligerency of Red China more than the belligerency of Red Russia.

There have been increasing reports from both Moscow and Peking that the Chinese Reds were becoming restless with the Kremlin's more moderate leadership and wanted a tougher policy toward the West.

Khrushchev's right-about-face regarding a summit conference after conferring with Mao Tse-tung appears to bear this out.

Ike's Labor Secretary

An African workers' delegate to the International Labor Conference in Geneva recently commiserated with Eugene Frazier, President of the United Transport Service Employees, regarding discrimination against Negroes in the United States. "Things aren't so bad," replied Frazier, himself a Negro. "They are improving all the time."

The African delegate look incredulous.

"That isn't what I hear," he expressed his disbelief.

"What would you think," replied Frazier, "if I took you up for a drink with the American Secretary of Labor this afternoon?"

"I wouldn't believe it," remarked the African delegate.

However, Frazier did take him up to have a drink with the Secretary of Labor, James Mitchell, who was head of the American delegation to Geneva. Mitchell made it a practice to invite labor leaders, delegates, representatives of all countries to his office regardless of race, creed or color twice a week. The African delegate came away figuring things were not quite as bad in the USA as the Communists claim.

While a Senate committee has been investigating Chicago gangsters and the Mafia, a Chicago Congressman who once defended members of the Mafia and was once seen at a baseball game with Al Capone, tends to his knitting in the nearby House of Representatives.

He is Congressman Roland V. Libonati, Democrat of Chicago, whose election caused some skeptical glances from colleagues. After six months on the job, however, it can be reported that Libonati not only is making scores of friends among once dubious colleagues, but is chalking up a reputation as a conscience and hard-working Congressman.

In fact, his record of attendance on the House floor is phenomenal. Libonati has not missed one minute of the daily meetings of Congress since he took office.

He has a 100 per cent voting record on all roll and quorum calls, and, because he is always there, has been called upon by Speaker Sam Rayburn and other leaders no less than 20 times to make the motion for daily adjournments.

In addition, he has not missed a single meeting of the House Judiciary Committee, of which he is a member.

Libonati has introduced a total of 40 bills, dealing with slum redevelopment, juvenile delinquency, veterans' benefits, Alaskan statehood, and employment rehabilitation of jobless and old people.

The bill he is proudest of is called the "Youth Camp Recreation Act of 1958" to authorize the Department of Health, Education and Welfare to establish a summer camp program for indigent children all over the nation.

Before coming to Congress, Libonati was cited by the American Legion for the founding of the American Boys Camp at Coloma, Wisconsin, which has been in existence since 1937 and which provides accommodations for 800 children of veterans and servicemen each year.

Fact And Fancy

By Brother Barnabas

After learning that one of his duties was that of being a judge he demurred, for he was not trained in jurisprudence.

The monarch replied, "Oh, that will be easy. When two litigants appear before you you will need to listen to both sides and then render your verdict, according to your best judgment."

"But don't give your reasons, for your judgment will be right but your reasons wrong."

A Working Principle

The same principle holds in many walks of life and in all ages.

"Johnny, why do you keep pulling Tabby's tail?"

"Cause."

Johnny hasn't yet learned the law of cause and effect as it could be taught to the tune of a hickory stick.

As a rule everybody does what he wants to do unless inhibited by circumstances over which he has no control; and then he rationalizes what he has done and concludes either that he is a very wise guy or has made a fool of himself.

Impulse vs. Reason

More things are done by impulse than by reason.

Beautiful women marry home-ly men.

A dumbbell has a scholar for a husband.

A foolish woman of great beauty proposed marriage to Bernard Shaw saying that a combination of beauty and brains would insure a perfect offspring.

"But suppose the child should have my beauty and your brains," said the philosopher.

More history is made by impulse than by logic.

There is no sense in racial discrimination or war, yet passion breeds both.

The Dreamer

The Wright brothers had a hunch that a vessel heavier than air could be made to fly. The skeptics ridiculed the idea as beyond all reason, but the skies are filled with planes today.

A New Jersey school board raised the chief janitor's pay so it now equals that of a school principal. Somehow, this wouldn't seem to be the proper time to make a speech on the benefits of education.

Prince Charles of Britain has just been invested with eight new titles, including Prince of Wales. On graduation from the school he now attends he'll probably get another—"the student most likely to succeed."

Fact And Fancy

By Brother Barnabas

After learning that one of his duties was that of being a judge he demurred, for he was not trained in jurisprudence.

The monarch replied, "Oh, that will be easy. When two litigants appear before you you will need to listen to both sides and then render your verdict, according to your best judgment."

"But don't give your reasons, for your judgment will be right but your reasons wrong."

A Working Principle

The same principle holds in many walks of life and in all ages.

"Johnny, why do you keep pulling Tabby's tail?"

"Cause."

Johnny hasn't yet learned the law of cause and effect as it could be taught to the tune of a hickory stick.

As a rule everybody does what he wants to do unless inhibited by circumstances over which he has no control; and then he rationalizes what he has done and concludes either that he is a very wise guy or has made a fool of himself.

Impulse vs. Reason

More things are done by impulse than by reason.

Beautiful women marry home-ly men.

A dumbbell has a scholar for a husband.

A foolish woman of great beauty proposed marriage to Bernard Shaw saying that a combination of beauty and brains would insure a perfect offspring.

"But suppose the child should have my beauty and your brains," said the philosopher.

More history is made by impulse than by logic.

There is no sense in racial discrimination or war, yet passion breeds both.

The Dreamer

The Wright brothers had a hunch that a vessel heavier than air could be made to fly. The skeptics ridiculed the idea as beyond all reason, but the skies are filled with planes today.

A New Jersey school board raised the chief janitor's pay so it now equals that of a school principal. Somehow, this wouldn't seem to be the proper time to make a speech on the benefits of education.

Prince Charles of Britain has just been invested with eight new titles, including Prince of Wales. On graduation from the school he now attends he'll probably get another—"the student most likely to succeed."

Get Ready For The Chain Reaction

The Need For Courage In A Frightened World

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Sometimes in a few sentences in a public utterance there is epitomized the whole background of a crisis in the world. Secretary of State Dulles, speaking in Brazil this week, said:

"The international situation is critical. Atheistic, materialistic, and aggressive forces that would dominate all the world, talk boldly, they suggest that efforts to halt them will mean nuclear war."

"We do not in fact believe they want war or would invoke war. No sane people want war. War would be for all an inexorable disaster."

"The question is whether their threats will cause us to weaken and give in and thus sacrifice the genuine independence of nation after nation. That is not the path to peace. It is the road to war."

The foregoing is an eloquent answer to those critics here and abroad who frivolously claim that "America has no foreign policy."

It is a courageous answer to those who keep on giving the impression that the American people are terrorized and that there is only one thing to do — to make concession after concession to the Soviets and the Red Chinese as well as to their stooges in the Middle East.

Many a so-called "plan" has been proposed by panicky-minded persons who seem to feel that the alternative to war is just plain surrender. They cloak their proposals in fancy phrases — indeed, they bring out the old clichés about "neutralization" of certain regions and talk glibly about "bold and imaginative ideas" for "revising American policy." But paths of appeasement lead only to the same goal — defeatism.

For there are only two ways to try to maintain peace in the world. One of them involves military force, and this not always, but sometimes, means war. The other involves moral force, and this — when backed by a unified country and a willingness to use military force if every other effort fails — could succeed in keeping peace.

Some of the critics have derisively called this "brinkmanship." They use the term because Secretary Dulles once endeavored to express the need for courage in foreign policy and said that sometimes it is necessary to go to the "brink of war" in order to avoid war. He did not mean that he would merely resort to bluff. What he did mean is that, while it is imperative to exhaust every means of making a settlement, no nation which believes in the justness of its cause can avoid going to the very brink of war itself if that is necessary to impress its adversary that it is deeply in earnest.

There is a great advantage in applying moral force to the limit. If, for instance, war does come, it is then recognized by the people as the only choice left. Moral force means public discussion, good propaganda, debate in the forum of the United Nations General Assembly or in the press of the world or over the air waves. The theory is that peoples will control the hand of a government that threatens war. It is logical up to the point where censorship and suppression of ideas by a totalitarian government build an insurmountable barrier to communication between peoples.

Just now America has the most convincing case a nation ever had in the international arena. The United States stands for maintenance of the territorial integrity and political independence of all nations and is willing to supply military might, if necessary, to uphold that principle. For this is the key to peace in the Middle East and in every other area. To condone aggression, direct or indirect, is eventually to invite a world war.

America's record is untarnished. Though engaged victoriously in two world wars to defend its interests, it has not annexed a single foot of territory. When it has landed Marines anywhere, the reason always has been to protect the lives and property of its own citizens. The United States sent military forces to the Middle East last month to accomplish two purposes — to protect American lives there and to help preserve the political independence of a small nation, thus demonstrating to the Communists and their allies that the people and government of this country are not pacifistic but ready to fight in the future as in the past for a just cause.

The fact that America itself may be in military danger unless such a determined stand is taken now is not perhaps generally appreciated. It wasn't widely understood either during the 1930s when it was being said that, in the battle between the Democracies and Fascism, the "frontiers of the United States are on the Rhine." So today the "frontiers" in the defense of America may be in the Middle East.

The United States has drawn a line in the Far East beyond which it has said the Communist forces must not advance. In an analogous fashion — through the Truman and Eisenhower Doctrines — notification has been given that Communistic infiltration of free countries in Europe and the Middle East can reach a point where, if necessary, it will be challenged by arms. The hope is that peoples everywhere will perceive the real issue and restrain any dictatorship governments from taking chances in a delicate situation that could break down the peace of the world.

If it isn't a seller's market it's buyer's market. When it's neither it's both.

I've been through enough depressions to know one when it sees me. And, believe me or Ripley, this was not one.

Admiral Stump Warned U.S. Military Leaders Of Trouble With Red China

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — The sudden, secret Pekin conference between Khrushchev and Mao Tse-tung was preceded some weeks earlier by a confidential warning from Admiral Felix Stump, American naval commander in the Far East, that trouble might be brewing with the Red Chinese.

Admiral Stump flew to Washington to attend the secret military strategy meeting at Quantico, Va., where he warned our highest military leaders that U. S. Naval Forces in the Pacific were inadequate, our carriers were wearing out, and that we had neglected our Far Eastern friends.

Some of the Communist maneuvering on the mainland of China especially worried Stump. The Chinese Reds have a growing economic problem, and war could be a desperate way out. With modern medicine and better living conditions now prevailing in parts of China, the Chinese population is bulging. One thing that alarmed Admiral Stump was the statement by Chinese leaders that in case of war China could afford to lose half its population. It would still have 300,000,000 left.

Human life in China has long been the cheapest of all commodities. This was one reason for the waves of suicide troops thrown against American lines in the Korean war. It is also one reason why American military strategists have long feared the belligerency of Red China more than the belligerency of Red Russia.

There have been increasing reports from both Moscow and Peking that the Chinese Reds were becoming restless with the Kremlin's more moderate leadership and wanted a tougher policy toward the West.

Khrushchev's right-about-face regarding a summit conference after conferring with Mao Tse-tung appears to bear this out.

Ike's Labor Secretary

An African workers' delegate to the International Labor Conference in Geneva recently comiserated with Eugene Frazier, President of the United Transport Service Employees, regarding discrimination against Negroes in the United States.

"Things aren't so bad," replied Frazier, himself a Negro. "They are improving all the time."

The African delegate took in credulous.

"That isn't what I hear," he expressed his disbelief.

"What would you think," replied Frazier, "if I took you up for a drink with the American Secretary of Labor this afternoon?"

"I wouldn't believe it," remarked the African delegate.

However, Frazier did take him up to have a drink with the Secretary of Labor, James Mitchell, who was head of the American delegation to Geneva. Mitchell made it a practice to invite labor leaders, delegates, representatives of all countries to his office regardless of race, creed or color twice a week. The African delegate came away figuring things were not quite as bad in the USA as the Communists claim.

Ex-Lawyer For Mafia

While a Senate committee has been investigating Chicago gangsters and the Mafia, a Chicago Congressman who once defended members of the Mafia and was once seen at a baseball game with Al Capone, tends to his knitting in the nearby House of Representatives.

He is Congressman Roland V. Libonati, Democrat of Chicago, whose election caused some skeptical glances from colleagues.

After six months on the job, however, it can be reported that Libonati not only is making scores of friends among once dubious colleagues, but is chalking up a reputation as a conscientious and hard-working Congressman.

In fact, his record of attendance on the House floor is phenomenal. Libonati has not missed one minute of the daily meetings of Congress since he took office.

He has a 100 per cent voting record on all roll and quorum calls, and, because he is always there, has been called upon by Speaker Sam Rayburn and other leaders no less than 20 times to make the motion for daily adjournments.

In addition, he has not missed a single meeting of the House Judiciary Committee, of which he is a member.

Libonati has introduced a total of 40 bills, dealing with slum redevelopment, juvenile delinquency, veterans' benefits, Alaskan statehood, and employment rehabilitation of jobless and old people.

The bill he is proudest of is called the "Youth Camp Recreation Act of 1958" to authorize the Department of Health, Education and Welfare to establish a summer camp program for indigent children all over the nation.

Before coming to Congress, Libonati was cited by the American Legion for the founding of the American Boys Camp at Coloma, Wisconsin, which has been in existence since 1937 and which provides accommodations for 800 children of veterans and servicemen each year.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Herbert Hoover At 84

The wheel of life turns, and our ex-President, Herbert Hoover again encounters a birthday on August 10. To him it is no great matter, for he has found in a long and useful life that birthdays, like politicians, come and go, and that one day is as good as another, depending upon how useful one can be.

This has not been the pleasantest year for Herbert Hoover, as during one part of it, he was put into a hospital to have his gall bladder taken out, which is really something for a man of his age; but as he would say, as the years go on, the parts get worn and it is not easy to get spare parts. Still, the doctors have done quite a job what with the blood banks and eye banks, etc., and the day may yet come when what is worn out will be replaced.

From another standpoint, the past year has been quite a glorious one for Herbert Hoover. First, he wrote and had published his book, "The Ordeal of Woodrow Wilson." It was a labor of love and he did not expect too much of it but it became a best seller. Herbert Hoover is engaged in writing a massive work on our foreign policy and has done a research, worthy of a dozen youngsters seeking their Ph.D.'s, in the course of which he came upon considerable unpublished material, some of which he has used in his work on Woodrow Wilson.

Although a Republican, Herbert Hoover served under Wilson and admired him greatly. One of the paradoxes of Hoover's life was that when he was in politics, he was regarded as an isolationist, although before he came into politics, he was regarded as so internationalistic as to be a man without a country. Naturally, both views were so extreme as to be wrong. Hoover was definitely associated with the ideas of Woodrow Wilson, some of which he helped to form. He believed in the League of Nations or some such body as a means of negotiating against war. He had played a great role in World War I and knew not only the perils of this game, but its lasting evil effects. As a Quaker, he had been ready to oppose it; as a citizen, he had learned to hate it; and for favor methods which would save Man from its recurrence.

His book, "The Ordeal of Woodrow Wilson," is, to a degree, a contribution to the cause of orderly and respectful peace, written by a man of 83, who has seen the world at its worst and at its best.

Another joy of this past year was his trip to the World's Fair in Brussels. Hoover has always had a deep affection for Belgium, a country which he fed and saved while so many of his contemporaries talked about what might be done. His Belgian Relief, during World War I, encountered insuperable difficulties, all of which Hoover met, even if it meant quarreling with Lloyd George and Winston Churchill who opposed his work lest it aid the Germans, too.

So, President Eisenhower appointed Herbert Hoover to represent the United States at the Brussels World's Fair on July 4. And the Belgian Government named July 5, Herbert Hoover Day and the people showed that they meant it. So he had two wonderful days in Belgium, during which he delivered two notable addresses and came back astonished that the people of Belgium really never forgot an old fellow who did well by them when he was young. It was a beautiful moment in his late life.

Hoover, of course, is out of politics. Every day he sits long hours, engaged in research and in writing. He will turn out another five books or so, God willing. He has them under his belt, as it were. His mind is keen, his judgement of men and events mellowed, his sense of humor sharpened. Perhaps he is a bit cynical about the great of the day, but if one has lived long, it is impossible not to note that all great men start as little boys and possibly much of the little boy remains. His greatest spiritual strength comes from his knowing no enmities and remembering no hatreds. Those who threw barbs at him, he welcomes as he does old friends, for he has forgotten the barbs.

Ambulances, Police Cars Shouldn't Go So Fast

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

An editorial, "Hot Pursuit," in the New England Journal of Medicine reminded me of a conversation I had with a traffic policeman. We were standing on the curb when a car shot by, obviously exceeding the speed limit.

The driver waved to the policeman, who apparently knew him. I asked whether he was going a little too fast.

"Yes," the officer replied. "But there is no need to worry about him. He is a bus driver."

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Carl

Beverly Smith tells about the burly mountaineer who came to town for a session of the legislature. Because he could swing his whole country when he saw fit, the city slickers figured he rated a banquet. The hill-billy politico imbibed a plate of consommé and several stalks of celery in pained silence, but really busted loose when they put a broiled lobster in front of him.

"Gents," he roared, "I drunk your dishwater and et your bouquet. But I'm durned if you get me to eat this burnt-up bug. Get it out of here!"

There's a porter working in a big department store who is Irish to the core. In fact he's so Irish that when an unsuspecting customers asked him, "Do you know where the Chintz Room is?" he answered without hesitation, "That I do" (with possibly a "be-gorrah" or two thrown in for good measure) and pointed straight to a door labeled "Men."

The editorial was concerned with the way policemen, firemen, and bus and ambulance drivers risk their necks and ours to get through traffic. It is done under the guise of protecting property and saving lives. How often is this necessary? Would it make any difference if they arrived a minute or two later?

Many people believe, for example, that the life of everyone who is taken to the hospital in an ambulance depends upon how fast he gets there. Only a few emergencies fall into this category. Persons who died on arrival or 10 minutes later probably would not have survived anyhow.

Ambulance accidents were reduced markedly in New York when the siren was discontinued. The driver now looks carefully when he crosses streets because he no longer is under the false impression that everyone hears him coming. Fire trucks are allowed to go as fast as possible, which endangers many lives. Physicians do not get this break, even though a life rather than a building may be at stake. Motorcycle escorts are plain crazy and have no business jeopardizing the public even if "he is a senator."

But the biggest problem centers about the 100 mile an hour pursuit of a thief by police. The editorial cites examples in which fugitives' cars have killed innocent people and damaged more property than the original crime was worth. We may be forced to change our thinking on how lawbreakers ought to be apprehended.

SQUEEZING THE EYES

D. E. writes: Why is it that when I squeeze my eyes real tight and then open them suddenly, I see much better temporarily.

REPLY

When astigmatism is present, squeezing the lids rounds out the eyeballs and neutralizes the slight changes in configuration that are responsible for this visual disorder. When the eyes are opened, they are better sight momentarily until the eyeball resumes its former shape.

DELIRIUM TREMENS

K. S. writes: When a person has the D. T.'s does he go into convulsions?

REPLY

Occasionally. Disorientation and restlessness are present and the victim is plagued with terrifying hallucinations during which he sees pink elephants, purple snakes, and other horrible creatures.

CANCER NOT "CATCHING"

J. M. writes: A friend with severe cancer of the face asked me to loan him my electric razor, which I did. After he died the family returned it. Is there any danger in my using the razor now?

REPLY

No as cancer is not contagious.

PECTIN IN APPLES

S. W. writes: Are apples binding because of their pectin content?

REPLY

No, because there is enough roughage in apples to overcome the effect of pectin.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

More things are done by impulse than by reason. Beautiful women marry home-ly men.

A dumbbell has a scholar for a husband.

A foolish woman of great beauty proposed marriage to Bernard Shaw saying that a combination of beauty and brains would insure a perfect offspring.

"But suppose the child should have my beauty and your brains," said the philosopher.

More history is made by impulse than by logic.

There is no sense in racial discrimination or war, yet passion breeds both.

The Dreamer

The Wright brothers had a hunch that a vessel heavier than air could be made to fly. The skeptics ridiculed the idea as beyond all reason, but the skies are filled with planes today.

Columbus had a hunch that he could reach the East Indies by sailing West. The critics thought he was crazy.

His dream paid off though he didn't know where he was when he arrived, or where he had been when he got back.

Science can make an egg with all its chemical elements intact, but it can't make an egg that will hatch.

Science can't explain how a cell can ever become a statesman or an egghead, forsooth.

Or how a carpenter can build a dog house and his wife put him in it.

We live in a spiritual universe, not mechanical. All attempts to do define it have come short.

A kiss has been defined as "A contraction of two orbicularis oris muscles in a state of juxtaposition," but that does not account for the sweet osculation of two lovers with but a single thought, two hearts that beat as one.

Poor Fool

Mephistopheles said:

I have, alas! Philosophy, Medicine and Jurisprudence, too.

And to my cost, Theology With ardent labor studied through, And here I stand, with all my lore Poor fool, no wiser than before.

We Can't Prove It

No one has seen God at any time, yet man is incurably religious.

Nobody can prove love, yet a mother will lay down her life for her child, or a patriot will die for his country.

The world needs more poets, seers, pray-ers, lovers to offset the materialism of our day.

Jacob served seven years for Rachel and they seemed to him but a few days because of the love he had for her, and then seven years longer to prove that love conquers all things (Genesis 29: 20, 30b).

See to it, says

W.Va. Voters Favor Judges Of Experience

Calhoun Nominated For Supreme Bench

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—West Virginia voters banked heavily on experience in choosing nominees for two State Supreme Court seats in Tuesday's primary election.

Chosen to oppose each other for an unexpired six-year term were Democratic Circuit Judge Thornton G. Berry of Welch and Republican Circuit Judge Max DeBerry of Harrisville, both judicial veterans.

But leading the field in terms of experience was Democrat Harlan C. Calhoun of Moorefield, who has presided as judge of the 22nd Circuit for more than 30 years. Calhoun will oppose incumbent Republican Robert T. Donley of Morgantown who was unopposed for nomination to an unexpired two-year term.

Berry defeated incumbent Judge H. L. Ducker of Huntington to win the long-term nomination. However, Ducker had been elected to no judicial post before being appointed to the high court 18 months ago to succeed William T. Lovins.

Just two years ago Berry had lost in the primary to incumbent Leslie Given, by a margin of less than 700 votes out of more than 100,000 cast. His margin over Ducker was 102,881 to 72,420. DeBerry defeated Pauley, a Charleston attorney, 58,760 to 33,190.

Two other circuit judges in the seven-way race which Calhoun won were runners-up to the veteran jurist. Judge K. K. Hall of Madison received 32,789 votes and Judge Norman Knapp of Beckley 30,683 compared to 40,063 for Calhoun.

Other vote totals in the race, with more than 99 per cent of the ballots tabulated unofficially, included Parkersburg attorney W. Bruce Hoff 28,564, Charleston attorney P. Oden Goshorn 19,072, former state beer commissioner Burton Crow of Ripley 16,070, and Charleston attorney Harold A. Bangert 15,776.

The two-year term represents the remainder of the term of Judge James B. Riley who died last June.

Polio Increases In West Virginia

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—West Virginia's 1958 polio incidence grew to 28 last week with the report of a new case in Webster County, the State Health Department reported.

Director N. H. Dyer said this compared to only 13 cases during the corresponding period of 1957.

Reports of influenza - like diseases also fell sharply last week, Dyer said. There were 41 new cases reported compared to 68 the previous week, bringing the total for the year to 8,886.

Mineral Co. School Staff Must Move

KEYSER—The Mineral County superintendent of schools, his assistant and staff have been ordered by the Board of Education to move their offices from the third floor of the Court House to Lincoln Elementary School.

A spokesman for the group said the action had been considered for some time as school officials need room for office expansion, and facilities at the Court House are not adequate for the work being attempted. The actual move was postponed because of the adult classes in sewing which were held at Lincoln School, and also to see if the building would be needed for classroom space this coming fall.

However, at a meeting of the School Board Tuesday night, members decided it was needed for the offices more than any other purpose and the superintendent and his staff were instructed to make arrangements to move immediately.

No major remodeling is being done at this time. The building is being cleaned up and minor alterations made so it can be used as offices. After the staff is located a decision will be made on what major changes, if any, will be made.

No definite date has been set for complete occupancy of the Church Street building, but officials hope they can be moved and ready for business at the new location within a month.

Another action taken by the board was the hiring of several additional teachers. These include: Miss Martha Lee Boyles of Middlebourne as a commercial teacher at Fort Ashby High; Mrs. Ruth Healy of Cumberland as an instructor in Short Gap Elementary School; Larry Harr of Piedmont as an instructor in Keyser Elementary School; Robert Kienriem of Wheeling as music instructor in Fort Ashby schools and Mrs. John Fox of Keyser as girls' physical education instructor at Piedmont High.

Virgil Hull of Keyser has been transferred from Fort Ashby High as a teacher at Keyser High School. Mrs. Evelyn Matlick, who taught last year at New Creek, has been transferred to Fountain School as an additional teacher. No grades are being added but an extra instructor has been hired to help take care of the increasing enrollment in that area.

Students enrolled in the Eighth Grade at Limestone School will come to Keyser this year because of crowded conditions there.

Superintendent S. T. McGee said that among the teachers still needed are one in home economics at Ridgeley High, math instructors at Fort Ashby and Elk Garden High and about three qualified elementary teachers.

The board also awarded to the Gulf Oil Company, low bidder, a contract for gasoline and oil for the school year.

Midland Council Launches Cleanup

MIDLAND—Midland Volunteer Firemen washed the main streets of Midland with their new tank truck. Two hose streams and brooms were needed to clean the sidewalks, streets and gutters. In the past week several men have been engaged by the new mayor and council pulling weeds and cutting grass along the sides of the streets. All citizens are urged to keep grass trimmed on the outside of their fences.

The town is taking on a neater and cleaner appearance, and with plans to remove several dilapidated buildings on Main Street, the mayor and council feel that the citizens will take more pride in their town.

W.Va. Voters Favor Judges Of Experience

Calhoun Nominated For Supreme Bench

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—West Virginia voters banked heavily on experience in choosing nominees for two State Supreme Court seats in Tuesday's primary election.

Chosen to oppose each other for an unexpired six-year term were Democratic Circuit Judges Thornton G. Berry of Welch and Republican Circuit Judge Max DeBerry of Harrisville, both judicial veterans.

But leading the field in terms of experience was Democrat Harlan C. Calhoun of Moorefield, who has presided as judge of the 22nd Circuit for more than 30 years. Calhoun will oppose incumbent Republican Robert T. Donley of Morgantown who was unopposed for nomination to an unexpired two-year term.

Berry defeated incumbent Judge H. L. Ducker of Huntington to win the long-term nomination. However, Ducker had been elected to no judicial post before being appointed to the high court 18 months ago to succeed William T. Lovins.

Just two years ago Berry had lost in the primary to incumbent Leslie Given, by a margin of less than 700 votes out of more than 100,000 cast. His margin over Ducker was 102,881 to 72,420. DeBerry defeated Pauley, a Charleston attorney, 58,760 to 33,190.

Two other circuit judges in the seven-way race which Calhoun won were runners-up to the veteran jurist. Judge K. K. Hall of Madison received 32,789 votes and Judge Norman Knapp of Beckley 30,683 compared to 40,963 for Calhoun.

Other vote totals in the race, with more than 99 per cent of the ballots tabulated unofficially, included Parkersburg attorney W. Bruce Hoff 28,564, Charleston attorney F. Oden Goshorn 19,072, former state beer commissioner Burton Crow of Ripley 16,070, and Charleston attorney Harold A. Bangert 15,776.

The two-year term represents the remainder of the term of Judge James B. Riley who died last June.

Polio Increases In West Virginia

Reports of influenza-like diseases also fell sharply last week, Dyer said. There were 41 new cases reported compared to 68 the previous week, bringing the total for the year to 8,886.

Phillies Upset Milwaukee, 7-6

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Bob Bowman's third straight hit drove home the winning run in a two-run ninth inning rally Friday night as the Philadelphia Phillies eked out a 7-6 victory over the National League leading Milwaukee Braves.

Bowman, a late game replacement, delivered the winning blow off reliever Don McMahon after pinch-hitter Dave Philley had tied the score with a single behind Eddie Bouchee's inning-opening double.

Philley took second on the throw to the plate and moved to third as pinch-hitter Carl Sawatski grounded out. Bowman lined the first pitch through the middle for the winning hit.

Bowman, used as a pinch hitter for starting pitcher Ray Semproch and then sent to left field, tied the score at five-all in the sixth when he drove one of Juan Pizarro's southpaw slants into the lower left field stands with two mates aboard.

Pirates' George Witt Defeats Cincy, 1-0

Clemente's Hit Scores Lone Tally

Pittsburgh Rookie Yields Only 3 Hits To Defeat Nuxhall

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Pirate rookie George Witt pitched a sparkling three-hit shutout Friday night to beat the Cincinnati Reds, 1-0.

Witt scored the only run of the game himself after he led off the sixth inning with an infield single. Roman Mejias sacrificed and Witt crossed the plate on a single by Roberto Clemente.

The only other inning in which the Pirates threatened against Joe Nuxhall was the eighth. With one out and runners on second and third, Hal Jeffcoat came in to retire the side. He gave Mejias an intentional pass to fill the bases, struck out Clemente and got Dick Stuart on a grounder to short.

Nuxhall got the first hit off Witt, who struck out ten, in the fifth inning when he beat out a bunt.

Only one Cincinnati runner got as far as third base.

Jerry Lynch opened the eighth with a single, stopped at second as George Crowe singled and went to third on a force-out. But Witt fanned Bob Thurman for the fourth time to end the inning.

County Employees Ballot On Sick Leave Program

The employees of Allegany County have voted 109 to 101 for a system whereby sick leave could be accumulated to a maximum of 30 days instead of the plan whereby a worker gets an extra week's vacation if no sick leave is used during a year.

In the past few years the workers have received the extra vacation week if they had no sick leave. Workers get 14 days annually in sick leave and under the new system, which will be in force, after a two-year period they will have 28 days for sick leave.

Commissioner William A. Wilson some weeks ago suggested the workers be given the right to vote on which method they wished to use. He said some workers had asked about the matter and cited that 14 days was too little time for sick leave in any one year in cases where the ailment was of a serious nature. Workers will be paid for the time they are off on sick leave.

Commissioner Wilson had pointed out that in case a worker had to undergo surgery he would be away from work more than two weeks in most instances. By the new system this worker would have more time to recover and return to work without loss of wages. Actually, the 30 days sick leave provision would mean six weeks time as the sick leave is counted only on days normally worked. This will give Saturdays and Sundays as extra days off.

The board also received a check from the proceeds of the sale of a $25,000 bond issue for use by the LaVale Sanitary Commission for a new pumping station. The money, after deduction of expenses in issuing the bonds, amounted to $24,242.55 and will be turned over to the LaVale agency.

Forest Crews Begin Battle On Oak Wilt

Eradication of a number of areas of woodland infected with oak wilt began yesterday in Allegany, Garrett and Washington counties, William A. Johnson, district forester, announced.

A Department of Forests and Parks crew is making a ground check of 28 suspected infestations located during July by aerial reconnaissance.

The section checked this year covered from Savage Mountain in Garrett County, across Allegany County to Bear Pond Mountain in Washington County.

The airplane spotting was done in cooperation with the Pennsylvania Department of Forests.

Some of the areas found to be infected will be set up into study plots by the U. S. Forestry Service's officials from its northeastern region experiment station in Upper Darby, Pa.

Johnson said these six or eight areas will be used to study the spread of the disease that has crept into this section from the southwest.

He also said the U. S. forestry technicians will check to determine if Maryland's control measures are excessive or adequate.

In this state, he pointed out, the infected tree is killed along with all others within a radius of 50 feet.

But in West Virginia only the infected tree is killed and treated, he pointed out.

In the past several years, Maryland, Pennsylvania and West Virginia along with the U. S. Forestry Service's northeastern regional authorities have been cooperating in swapping information on the disease.

Oak wilt is transmitted by airborne spores, Johnson noted. It was not known in the tri-state section before about ten years ago, having gradually worked its way from the southwest.

County Employees Ballot On Sick Leave Program

The employees of Allegany County have voted 109 to 101 for a system whereby sick leave could be accumulated to a maximum of 30 days instead of the plan whereby a worker gets an extra week's vacation if no sick leave is used during a year.

In the past few years the workers have received the extra vacation week if they had no sick leave. Workers get 14 days annually in sick leave and under the new system, which will be in force, after a two-year period they will have 28 days for sick leave.

Commissioner William A. Wilson some weeks ago suggested the workers be given the right to vote on which method they wished to use. He said some workers had asked about the matter and cited that 14 days was too little time for sick leave in any one year in cases where the ailment was of a serious nature. Workers will be paid for the time they are off on sick leave.

Commissioner Wilson had pointed out that in case a worker had to undergo surgery he would be away from work more than two weeks in most instances. By the new system this worker would have more time to recover and return to work without loss of wages. Actually, the 30 days sick leave provision would mean six weeks time as the sick leave is counted only on days normally worked. This will give Saturdays and Sundays as extra days off.

The board also received a check from the proceeds of the sale of a $25,000 bond issue for use by the LaVale Sanitary Commission for a new pumping station. The money, after deduction of expenses in issuing the bonds, amounted to $24,242.55 and will be turned over to the LaVale agency.

Reneged Wins Saratoga Race

Beats Little Hermit In Legion Handicap

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 8 (AP) — Woodley Lane Farm's Reneged, favorite in today's 32nd running of the $25,700 American Legion Handicap, was victor by five lengths in the slop, with topweight of 126 pounds and was ably handled by Jockey Robert Ussery. Reneged negotiated the seven furlongs in a brisk 1:24 and as liberal choice returned $6.10, $4.30, $3.40.

Little Hermit owned by John S. Kroese was second by two lengths over Howell E. Jackson's Tick Tock, a late closing third in front of Colin MacLeod Jr.'s Besomer, two and a half lengths removed, farther back.

Woodley Lane Farm is the nom de course of Steven B. Wilson, Joseph Straus and Lafayette Ware, businessmen who bought Reneged as a yearling for $13,700 with Homer Pardue the horse's constant trainer since then acting as agent in the purchase. Mr. and Mrs. Wilson were in the winner's circle representing the Woodley Lane combine to receive a trophy from Joseph Peets, Legion commander of Saratoga County. Reneged's win today brought them an additional $15,155.

A. B. Chupek Guilty Of Manslaughter

Andrew Bernard Chupek, 35, of Jenners, Pa., was found guilty yesterday afternoon in Trial Magistrate Court of a charge of manslaughter by automobile and was sentenced to six months in the Maryland House of Correction and fined $500.

Chupek was charged in a high-way accident in which Frank Junior Mayhew, 34, of Piedmont, W. Va., was killed on May 17 on State Route 135, about a half-mile east of Westernport.

At the hearing yesterday before Magistrate Morris Baron, Chupek testified he had been driving the automobile earlier that evening, but didn't remember a thing after he stopped at a service station just prior to the accident.

Woke Up In Hospital

Chupek said he had worked until about 9 a.m. on May 16 and had drunk five or six beers after supper. He stated the last thing he remembered after stopping at the gas station was waking up in Memorial Hospital two or three days after the accident.

Junie Ellen Bennett, 21, also of Piedmont, was a passenger in the car which crashed, and she sustained a leg injury. She was not present at yesterday's hearing, but County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya testified that the woman had identified Chupek as the driver, in a statement taken in the state's attorney's office.

Chupek, a carpenter who had been working in the Tri-Towns area at the time of the accident, also testified yesterday he lost a watch valued at over $100 and over $200 in cash the night of the crash.

Plans To Appeal

State's Attorney James S. Getty prosecuted the case which was the first of its kind to be tried in the lower courts in several years.

It had been the previous policy of the state's attorney's office to present this type of case, a misdemeanor, to the grand jury for indictment.

Chupek indicated after the hearing yesterday that he plans to appeal the decision in the case to the Allegany County Circuit Court.

He attempted to pass a car and in doing so saw another car coming in the opposite direction. He steered his car to the left and ran up over an embankment.

The Engineering Department yesterday issued permits for three construction projects which will cost a total of $33,475.

The Schmidt Baking Company secured a permit to construct flour storage bins on the top of its plant at 800 Frederick Street.

Impounded Mine Water Poses Threat To Safety

William A. Wilson, as acting president of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners, yesterday wrote Frank J. Powers, director of the State Bureau of Mines, calling his attention to potential danger from an old mine near Beechwood in the Lonaconing area.

The letter explained that Francis Wilhelm of Beechwood brought this potential danger to the attention of the county commissioners.

Apparently because of a fall, an old mine opening which regularly discharged a stream of mine water down Detmold Hill has been stopped up and is impounding water normally discharged.

Mr. Wilson writes that the amount of water being impounded may create a dangerous condition if it should break out of its dam.

The county commissioners do not know who owns the old mine. They suggest that Mr. Powers investigate because they feel it constitutes a threat to the safety of the people and property in that general area.

Boy Critically Hurt When Bike Hits Coal Truck

A nine-year-old local boy who was riding a bicycle on West Side yesterday afternoon and collided with a moving coal truck, remained on the critical list last night at Sacred Heart Hospital.

Richard Robinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Robinson, 217 Paca Street, suffered head injuries, abrasions of the face, laceration of his left leg and complained of a shoulder injury.

X-rays have been taken, according to attaches, who said the lad remained on the critical list, although he was "doing fairly well."

City Police said the accident occurred about 12:20 p. m. on Walnut Place near Beall Street. The boy came from behind a garage along the street and pedaled his bicycle into the path of a loaded coal truck operated by Samuel H. Hott, 35, of RD 3, McCoole.

The truck, police said, had turned off Paca Street into Walnut Place and was traveling in the direction of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant.

A witness said the truck driver was traveling about eight miles an hour when the accident occurred. The truck is owned by James P. Moran of Westernport.

Officer Joseph H. Stichter said no charges have been filed against the driver.

Beall Orders TV 'Plug' Withdrawn

BALTIMORE (AP) — Sen. J. Glenn Beall today ordered withdrawal from television stations a filmed campaign advertisement featuring his receiving an honorary degree from Mt. St. Mary's College.

The political advertisement was televised last Tuesday. It showed a still picture of Beall receiving the degree from The Rt. Rev. Msgr. John L. Sheridan, Mt. St. Mary's president. An announcer read excerpts from the citation including "you have served the people well."

Beall is seeking re-election to the Senate.

His Democratic opponent, Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro of Baltimore, issued a statement saying: "Marylanders of all religious denominations were dismayed and disgusted this week by the brazen, unauthorized political exploitation of a high official of the Catholic church by my Republican opponent."

Beall's campaign headquarters said the film was prepared by campaign workers here and that the senator had not seen it before it was televised.

Msgr. Sheridan said upon inquiry he did not know of the campaign film until after it was aired. He said he had received personal assurance from Beall that it would not be shown again.

Msgr. Sheridan said he and Beall have been close personal friends for 40 years.

$535,130 Spent On New Road

During the fiscal year which ended June 30 $535,130.33 was spent on the new road linking State Route 51 and the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company plant at North Branch, according to a report received yesterday by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners from the State Roads Commission.

The cash balance July 1, 1957, was $339,261.60. Receipts during the year were $141,074.03 from federal aid and $71,084.44 from the county. Those brought total available funds to $551,420.07.

Expenditures on the Pittsburgh Plate Glass road in the past year included $504,770.82 for completed projects and $30,359.51 charged for work in progress. Those expenditures left a cash balance of $16,289.74. Another $1,238.59 in estimated expenditures is needed to complete payment for the road. That leaves $15,051.15 available for other projects.

In the fiscal year which ends June 30, 1959, another $97,065 in federal aid is available for other projects on which agreement may be reached. An additional $99,594 is earmarked in federal aid for the year ending June 30, 1960.

Four-Year Plan For Streets, Sewers Asked

Plans for a four-year program of major street and sewer improvements have been presented to the Mayor and Council.

Street Commissioner John J. Long said the plan has not been completed but will consist of a list of projects catalogued as to the approximate date for completion.

Success of the plan, he said, will depend on a bond issue earmarked specifically for street and sewer improvements.

The four-year plan was the keynote of a report on recommendations for the Department of Streets and Public Property presented during Thursday's budget session.

Lists Urgent Jobs

"The purpose of the four-year plan is to give us a star to hitch our wagon to," he said. Mr. Long presented a specific list of urgent projects that should be included in the long range plan.

In capital improvements totaling $68,500 he listed as recommended by City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum, the following:

Sanitary sewer for the new National Guard Armory; sanitary sewer for the housing project on West Oldtown Road that is provided in an agreement with the government; Winifred Road sewer; Kelly Boulevard storm sewer; Brinker Run sewer and Hill Top Drive sewer.

Roads, $67,000 — Widening of Knox Street as an obligation of the city in the permanent easement obtained from the Carolan Brothers; George Street Extension, and Franklin Street widening.

Maintenance, sewers—$3,550 — Valley Street sewer modification; sewer adjustment at 211 Washington Street; and catch basin and head near the Algonquin Hotel.

Maintenance, streets—$18,500 — grading and surfacing of Brown Avenue as an obligation of the city for the National Guard Armory; grading and surfacing of Van Buren Avenue, also an obligation of the city; construction of a wall on Woodside Avenue to support the street; surface treating streets in Southview Addition; surfacing of Barnard Street in Ridgeley as an obligation of the city in the part of the Cumberland-Ridgeley flood control project.

Mr. Long also listed a number of projects held over from the past fiscal year.

They include widening Williams Street from Park Street to Maryland Avenue; $16,300; service alley rear of Mechanic Street, $600; blacktopping Bedford Street from the B&O Railroad to the end of the block, $15,000; widening Bedford Street from Fectig Avenue to the city limits, $16,000.

The Kelly Boulevard storm sewer costing $1,900, and the Hill Top Drive sewer, costing $13,000, are also held over from last year.

Other sewer jobs remaining from last year are Myrtle Street storm sewer, $2,000, and Wills Creek Avenue, $13,000.

The urgent jobs listed previously and not held over from last year would cost $89,050, Long said.

Projects held over amount to $245,900.

Chamber Seeks Hearing On C&O Canal Park Bill

The Cumberland Chamber of Commerce has asked Rep. Grace Plost (D-Idaho) for a chance to testify in support of the C & O Canal Historical Park Bill.

The request was made in a telegram sent by Thomas F. Conlon Jr., chairman of the Chamber's Tourist and Convention committee.

The Chamber earlier this year presented its brief on the project to the House Subcommittee on Public Lands when time was not available for testimony.

In another action, Charles S. Catherman Jr., president of the Chamber, this week conferred with U.S. Senator J. Glenn Beall on strategy which might be used to get the proposal through Congress during the present session.

The subcommittee yesterday failed to take up the bill. It heard witnesses on two other bills and then adjourned, subject to the call of the chairman. The group broke up when the House met at 11 a.m., an hour earlier than usual.

Mrs. Plost told a reporter she hopes the committee can consider the C & O park bill next week.

Rep. DeWitt S. Hyde (R-Md.), who has been urging creation of the park along some 165 miles of the Potomac River above Washington, said he hopes action may be taken before the end of this session of Congress.

Variety Show Is Next Week At Frostburg

Sponsored by Community Programs Inc. of Frostburg, the show will be presented on Thursday, August 14, at 8:30 p. m. in Compton Hall on the college campus.

Mr. Lawrence had a role in the motion picture, "Stalag 17," and has appeared on a number of television shows.

He also had engagements at hotels and night clubs throughout the nation. In his teens he signed up with the Giants but his baseball career was interrupted when he entered the Navy.

Talented persons of Frostburg and the tri-state area will perform during the show, which will include a number, "76 Trombones," by the majorettes of Allegany, Fort Hill and Beall high schools.

Road Director Writes Reports On Complaints

A new system of written reports to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners was instituted yesterday by Harry S. Skelly, who assumed new duties August 1 as county roads supervisor.

Mr. Skelly has prepared printed forms for the road reports and then fills in the details concerning the conditions found on the checked road.

Both reports submitted to the commissioners yesterday involved road complaints received at Tuesday's session.

The first concerned Stewart Road, which is on Polish Mountain in Election District 3. Dwight R. Spencer had asked for repairs. The new county roads supervisor's report shows that two owners and one renter live on the ten-foot wide road.

Stewart Road is not a county road, he reported. The residents are in the process now of getting rights-of-way. After rights-of-way are received, the residents must build the road to county specifications before it can be placed in the county system.

The second report concerned Jefferson Lane or Gosgrove Lane near Westernport in Election District 8. The county roads supervisor says that ten families live on this road, which also is ten feet wide. It is not in the county system and the county does not have a right-of-way. The road has a grade of 23 to 25 per cent which Mr. Skelly considers too steep to maintain. The Horse Rock Hill development is dumping water on Jefferson Lane.

Howard Dunnivan, William Martin, John Everline and Earl Dodge appeared at Tuesday's meeting to complain about Jefferson Lane.

Local Youth Injured

Gary Rice, 15, of 106 Grand Avenue, was reported in "fair" condition last night where he was admitted after being injured while playing ball.

The hospital reported the youth was struck in the abdomen in a collision with another youth while playing at Fort Hill field.

Studies Begin On 4-6 P. M. Parking Ban

Delegation Urges Test Of Old Plan

Commissioner Philmore Fleming yesterday told a delegation of businessmen the Police Department will make a careful study of the merchants' request for the easing of a 4-6 p. m. parking ban on North Centre and North Mechanic streets.

The delegation of 15 representatives of business firms affected by the ban met yesterday with Commissioner Fleming, Mayor J. Edwin Keech, Police Chief R. E. Flynn and Lt. Raymond R. Johnston.

Commissioner Fleming said members of the delegation reported most of their business is transacted from 11 a. m. to 5 p. m. and that business drops sharply at 4 p. m., when parking is prohibited on the street.

Seek Trial For Parking

A spokesman for the delegation explained that the stores understood the need for restricting parking on the street while the temporary Baltimore Street Bridge was in use.

He explained that since the city's normal traffic pattern has been restored, the businessmen would like an opportunity to give the old system a trial for several weeks to see what will happen.

Members of the delegation told city officials they will talk with other businessmen of the area, seeking cooperation from all firms to make sure that traffic will move at all times on the remaining lane.

Commissioner Fleming said a traffic count made at North Centre and Baltimore Street showed that 264 more vehicles entered North Centre from 4 to 6 p. m. than from 2 to 4 p. m. A similar count will be taken Monday on North Mechanic Street.

Will Study Facts

He said that after the surveys are made and all facts are in next week, he will meet with Chief Flynn and Lt. Johnston to act on the request.

The delegation asked that if the test is made, the same officers who have been enforcing the parking ban be assigned to the streets to make sure that the plan works.

Members of the group admitted that when some leeway is given on parking, some stores abuse the privilege by parking their own delivery trucks in front of their stores.

Commissioner Fleming said city officials are also considering the possibility of setting up a schedule for loading and unloading of trucks in stores, and for a permanent truck route.

PE Will Get New Power Sales Engineer

Harry B. Rambo, who has been appointed as power sales engineer for the Cumberland District of the Potomac Edison Company, will move to LaVale next week with his wife and two daughters, it was learned last night.

He is succeeding Gilbert P. Fohn of LaVale, who has been transferred to PE's Hagerstown District as commercial manager. Mr. Fohn and his family will move to Hagerstown about September 1. He has been serving as president of the LaVale Lions Club and is a past president of the LaVale Civic Improvement Association. He has been here since January 1954.

A native of New York City, Mr. Bohn began his employment with Potomac Edison as a summer-time employee in 1948 and 1949 while attending the University of Maryland, from which he was graduated in 1950.

After graduation he came to PE on a full-time basis in the drafting department. After three years there, he became power sales engineer for the Hagerstown, Waynesboro and Frederick areas, working from the general offices in Hagerstown.

Mr. Rambo has been with Potomac Edison since 1946. He has served as commercial representative in Martinsburg, W. Va., Luray, Va., Winchester, Va., and Waynesboro, Pa., where he has been since 1954. In May he was moved to PE's general offices in Hagerstown for training as power sales engineer.

Born in Tarentum, Pa., Mr. Rambo was graduated from Hagerstown High School and attended Purdue University and North Carolina State College before receiving a bachelor's degree from Gettysburg College in 1946.

Boy Critically Hurt When Bike Hits Coal Truck

A nine-year-old local boy who was riding a bicycle on West Side yesterday afternoon and collided with a moving coal truck, remained on the critical list last night at Sacred Heart Hospital.

Richard Robinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Robinson, 217 Paca Street, suffered head injuries, abrasions of the face, laceration of his left leg and complained of a shoulder injury.

X-rays have been taken, according to attaches, who said the lad remained on the critical list, although he was "doing fairly well."

City Police said the accident occurred about 12:20 p. m. on Walnut Place near Beall Street.

The boy came from behind a garage along the street and pedaled his bicycle into the path of a loaded coal truck operated by Samuel H. Hott, 35, of RD 3, McCoole.

The truck, police said, had turned off Paca Street onto Walnut Place and was traveling in the direction of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant.

A witness said the truck driver was traveling about eight miles an hour when the accident occurred. The truck is owned by James P. Moran of Westernport.

Beall Orders TV 'Plug' Withdrawn

BALTIMORE (AP) — Sen. J. Glenn Beall today ordered withdrawal from television stations a filmed campaign advertisement featuring his receiving an honorary degree from Mt. St. Mary's College.

The political advertisement was televised last Tuesday. It showed a still picture of Beall receiving the degree from The Rt. Rev. Msgr. John L. Sheridan, Mt. St. Mary's president. An announcer read excerpts from the citation including "you have served the people well."

Beall is seeking re-election to the Senate.

His Democratic opponent, Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro of Baltimore, issued a statement saying: "Marylanders of all religious denominations were dismayed and disgusted this week by the brazen, unauthorized political exploitation of a high official of the Catholic church by my Republican opponent."

Beall's campaign headquarters said the film was prepared by campaign workers here and that the senator had not seen it before it was televised.

Msgr. Sheridan said upon inquiry he did not know of the campaign film until after it was aired. He said he had received personal assurance from Beall that it would not be shown again.

Msgr. Sheridan said he and Beall have been close personal friends for 40 years.

Road Director Writes Reports On Complaints

A new system of written reports to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners was instituted yesterday by Harry S. Skelly, who assumed new duties August 1 as county roads supervisor.

Mr. Skelly has prepared printed forms for the road reports and then fills in the details concerning the conditions found on the checked road.

Both reports submitted to the commissioners yesterday involved road complaints received at Tuesday's session.

The first concerned Stewart Road, which is on Polish Mountain in Election District 3. Dwight R. Spencer had asked for repairs. The new county roads supervisor's report shows that two owners and one renter live on the ten-foot wide road.

Stewart Road is not a county road, he reported. The residents are in the process now of getting rights-of-way. After rights-of-way are received, the residents must build the road to county specifications before it can be placed in the county system.

The second report concerned Jefferson Lane or Gosgrove Lane near Westernport in Election District 8. The county roads supervisor says that ten families live on this road, which also is ten feet wide. It is not in the county system and the county does not have a right-of-way. The road has a grade of 23 to 25 percent which Mr. Skelly considers too steep to maintain. The Horse Rock Hill development is dumping water on Jefferson Lane.

Howard Dunnivan, William Martin, John Everline and Earl Dodge appeared at Tuesday's meeting to complain about Jefferson Lane.

Local Youth Injured

Studies Begin On 4-6 P. M. Parking Ban

Delegation Urges Test Of Old Plan

Commissioner Philmore Fleming yesterday told a delegation of businessmen the Police Department will make a careful study of the merchants' request for the easing of a 4-6 p. m. parking ban on North Centre and North Mechanic streets.

The delegation of 15 representatives of business firms affected by the ban met yesterday with Commissioner Fleming, Mayor J. Edwin Keech, Police Chief R. E. Flynn and Lt. Raymond R. Johnston.

Commissioner Fleming said members of the delegation reported most of their business is transacted from 11 a. m. to 5 p. m. and that business drops sharply at 4 p. m., when parking is prohibited on the street.

Seek Trial For Parking

A spokesman for the delegation explained that the stores understood the need for restricting parking on the street while the temporary Baltimore Street Bridge was in use.

He explained that since the city's normal traffic pattern has been restored, the businessmen would like an opportunity to give the old system a trial for several weeks to see what will happen.

Members of the delegation told city officials they will talk with other businessmen of the area, seeking cooperation from all firms to make sure that traffic will move at all times on the remaining lane.

Commissioner Fleming said a traffic count made at North Centre and Baltimore Street showed that 264 more vehicles entered North Centre from 4 to 6 p. m. than from 2 to 4 p. m. A similar count will be taken Monday on North Mechanic Street.

Will Study Facts

He said that after the surveys are made and all facts are in next week, he will meet with Chief Flynn and Lt. Johnston to act on the request.

The delegation asked that if the test is made, the same officers who have been enforcing the parking ban be assigned to the streets to make sure that the plan works.

Members of the group admitted that when some leeway is given on parking, some stores abuse the privilege by parking their own delivery trucks in front of their stores.

Commissioner Fleming said city officials are also considering the possibility of setting up a schedule for loading and unloading of trucks in stores, and for a permanent truck route.
